EJECT AVERY BODILY FROM WARD PLANT

6,000 TONS OF BOMBS STRIKE NAZIS IN DAY

Americans Hit Atlantic Wall After Night RAF Raid on Essen, Schweinfurth.

By The Associated Press

LONDON, April 27—Two thousand allied planes slammed perhaps 6,000 tons of bombs on Nazi targets in the gigantic pre-invasion air offensive today—U. S. bombers pounding heavily at the German Atlantic wall after an RAF assault on Essen, Schweinfurt and rail yards near Paris.

Well over 1,000 British bombers aimed possibly 4,500 tons of explosives and incendiaries on the Nazi cities and rail target by starlight, opening the 13th consecutive day of bombing.

Then 500 to 750 U. S. Liberators and Flying Fortresses lashed out against military objectives in northern France, supported by 250 to 300 fighters.

The German radio declared allied planes roared into southern and southwest Germany this morning—possibly coming from Italy to make the day operators a two-way blow—and that great air battles were raging.

Planes Fill Skies

For hours beginning at dawn the channel skies were filled with planes of almost every type resuming the scourging offensive.

Twenty-nine big British bombers were lost in the triple assault on the armaments city of Essen —the "Pittsburgh of Germany"— Schweinfurt and its ball-bearing factories, and the railways at Villeneuve St. Georges, 15 miles southeast of Paris.

Mosquito bombers also attacked the port of Hamburg, with two planes lost, and other bombers laid mines.

German bombers, apparently intent on harassing invasion demobilizations, struck at the English coast three times during the night, and Berlin identified objectives as the naval base of Portsmouth and other harbors.

Two hours after the main assault on Essen, home of the Krupp works, a great area of fire overspread the city and smoke rose 20,000 feet, the air ministry declared. The Schweinfurt bombing was "particularly well concentrated."

Essen once was the main prop of the German heavy armament industry, and last was pounded by more than 750 British bombers March 26 and Mosquito squadrons April 8.

Ninth Attack on Essen

This was the ninth attack on Essen, a 600-mile round trip permitting the raiders to lug heavy bomb loads. The air ministry disclosed recently that the Germans had rebuilt extensively in the city, which once had been believed knocked out of the war.

Schweinfurt, hammered repeatedly by U. S. heavy bombers, is in southwest Germany 475 miles from British bases, and once produced half of all the Nazis' ball-bearings. Some of the costliest air battles of the

YOUNG WOLF PACKS ROUTED IN WEST

By The Associated Press

SEATTLE, April 27 — Sheriff Harlan S. Callahan estimated today that at least 75 arrests will be made as a result of an investigation which uncovered "wolf packs" of young men and boys who admitted young girls to their membership on condition they permit intimacies with all male members of the groups.

Two federal housing projects near Seattle already have forced 100 young persons, most of them brought here from the midwest to work in war plants, to vacate as a result of the discovery of a series of orgies, Sheriff Callahan said.

One 17-year-old brunette said she joined one of the "wolf packs," as the "members" called their groups, January 1 and since then had been intimate with 13 of the men, Sheriff Callahan reported.

Fifteen of the young men arrested thus far have been charged with contributing to the delinquency of minors and several older men and women arrested were charged with furnishing liquor to minors.

While the investigation centered in the housing projects, Captain Jack Best of the sheriff's office said the parties in many instances have extended to the rear seats of automobiles, taxi-cabs, cemeteries and the grandstand of the nearby Longacres race track.

Many of the youngsters were about to be inducted into the service and said they were having one last fling with no regard for law, order or decency," said Best.

Two 15-year-old girls, held by authorities, exposed the operations of the gangs, Best related.

New Club Co-Ed Rooms Are Popular Youth Recreation Center

The Club Co-Ed soda bar and some of the tables and booths capable of seating 76 persons are pictured above. The soda fountain is modern and fully equipped.

The Club Co-Ed's big dance floor is pictured above. The bandstand at the left holds a juke box that will play for an hour. It is moved aside when bands are brought in for special occasions.

Club Has 1,800 Visitors Since Opening Less Than Week Ago; Membership 400, Still Growing.

Since Club Co-Ed opened its new quarters in the Y. M. C. A. less than a week ago, approximately 1,800 persons have visited the club, about 1,200 of them of high school age, officials estimated today. There have been more than 1,000 sales at the soda fountain.

Yesterday afternoon after school, 75 student members dropped in for a dance or two and refreshments. Evening sessions are busier.

The Club Co-Ed membership is growing rapidly, with approximately 400 signed so far. This number is expected to increase substantially as the new club program settles down to routine activity.

One of the most important developments, as far as the Y's Men's Service club and other sponsors are concerned, is the acceptance of the new quarters by the students who will use them. The students have voiced their appreciation for the recreational center and have added that it is exactly the type of center they want.

The sponsors had consulted the students carefully before going ahead with the plans for the quarters, but were not completely assured that the rooms were being equipped the way the students wanted them until the club had been in operation a few days and had been put to practical use.

DEFEND DELAY ON G.I. BILL

Leadsr Say They Are Attempting To Draft a Mesure That Is Workable.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, April 27 — Leaders of the house veterans' committee today defended their delay in reporting the senate-approved "G. I. bill of rights" as several hundred members of the American Legion, which would like to see the measure passed, gathered in Washington for spring committee hearings.

Chairman Rankin (D-Miss) and Rep. Edith Nourse Rogers of Massachusetts, ranking Republican member, declared the house group is taking its time because of a desire to "get a bill that will be workable."

The Legion's week-long sessions, starting today and culminating in a meeting of the national executive committee, are being held in Washington for the first time. Legionnaires frankly said the reason was that the "G.I. bill," providing benefits for veterans of World war II, is before congress.

Predict Enactment

A Legion announcement said those attending would, perhaps, "witness final enactment" of the measure.

Rankin, taking cognizance of criticism by the Legion and by Senator Clark (D-Mo), who steered the omnibus veterans bill to unanimous senate passage before Easter, said:

"My committee will refuse to be stampeded into reporting a bill without proper consideration. This is too important a matter to consider hastily. Some people talk in their sleep."

The last reference, he said, was

Russian Guns Command Every Street in Battered Sevastopol

Reds Say Attempts of Germans To Hold Out Indefinitely Are Doomed; Five Nazi Transports Sunk.

By The Associated Press

MOSCOW, April 27—Field dispatches from the Crimean front declared today that Soviet artillery, commanding every street in Sevastopol, is firing pointblank into the city and asserted German attempts to hold out definitely had entered their last stage.

"The enemy still holds dead streets and squares," said the army newspaper Red Star, "but Soviet guns have reached the Germans and Romanians in their last shelters."

It appeared the Soviet high command had decided to wipe out the enemy at any cost, even though it might mean the complete destruction of what still remains of battered Sevastopol.

The Red Star correspondent said the Germans still held airdromes in the suburbs of the once-great naval base but that they had been rendered unusable. He declared Soviet divebombers were cooperating with artillery in blasting the city.

Capture Important Hill

The dispatch added that Russian troops had captured an important hill near the city on which the Germans had located eight artillery and four mortar batteries.

Russian fleet and air force blows have sunk five transports presumably carrying axis troops from the besieged Crimean base, Moscow said.

In land fighting, the war bulletin said, 1,000 Germans were killed in two sharp but localized actions along the front, but the Russians made no mention of German and Romanian reports of a renewed Red army drive in the lower Dnestr river area.

The five transports blasted in the Black sea totalled 12,000 tons, the communique said. Two other transports were damaged, and a landing barge and two patrol boats were sunk.

Two thousand miles to the north, the Red air force spotted a convoy of Nazi transports in the Barents sea, the bulletin said, and sank four transports totalling 25,000 tons, two patrol boats, a barge, and damaged two other ships and a minelayer. Two attacking German planes were downed, and six Soviet planes were lost, it added.

FEAR 10 DEAD AS TWO SHIPS SINK IN LAKE

Vessels Reported Down After Collisions; Missing Men from Ore Freighter.

By The Associated Press

CLEVELAND, April 27—Two ship collisions occurred in a heavy fog which swept over Lake Erie at dawn today, resulting in the possible loss of 10 seamen and two lake freight carriers.

The James H. Reed, operated by Pickands Mather lines for the Interlake Steamship Co. of Cleveland, sank about 40 miles north of Erie, Pa., after colliding with the steamer Ashcroft, operated by Canadian Steamship Lines, Ltd., of Montreal.

Ten crewmen from the Reed were feared lost, and 26 survivors were taken aboard the Ashcroft which headed for Erie.

The Columbia Transit Co.'s steamer Frank Vigor was reported sunk in Pelee passage of western Lake Erie at about the same time, 5:30 a. m. (central wartime), after colliding with the steamer Phillip Minch, owned by the Kinsman Transit Co.

Crew Members Transferred

All members of the Vigor's crew were transferred to the Minch and there were no injured, the coast guard reported.

The Reed, a 448-foot freighter built in 1903, was enroute from Escanaba, Mich., to Buffalo, N. Y., with a load of iron ore, and the Ashcroft was enroute from Buffalo to Toledo, O., to take on a load of coal.

The Vigor was a 6,000-ton, 412-foot steel ship, traveling from Chicago to Buffalo with a load of sulphur.

Coast guard officials said 26 survivors of the Reed were enroute to Erie, Pa., and that coast guard medical officers from Cleveland were being flown there. At least three of the survivors were reported seriously injured.

Capt. Bert Brightstone, master, and R. O. Fletcher, chief engineer of the Reed, were said to be among the survivors.

Canada Steamship Lines officials said in Montreal "we do not know how many men were aboard the lake vessel," and added they had received only scanty reports because adverse atmospheric conditions hampered ship-to-shore radio transmission.

Contact Fails

Attempts to contact the Ashcroft from Cleveland also were ineffective.

The operating company's list of crew members from the Reed included:

First Mate Malcolm E. Moore, Toledo, O.

Second Mate Martin A. Mattson, Duluth, Minn.

Third Mate John J. Cummings of Cleveland, O.

Clinton W. Meyers, Lorain, O.

JAP DEFENSE NEAR COLLAPSE

Enemy Resistance Reported Crumbling on New Front in New Guinea.

By The Associated Press

Utter collapse of Japanese defenses at both ends of a 420-mile New Guinea war front, resulting in seizure on the west of two airfields at Hollandia and a third on the east at captured Madang, was reported today by Gen. Douglas MacArthur.

In four days, four airfields and three coastal bases were wrested from the Japanese. One airfield already is in use and engineers are rushing repairs on the other three.

A fifth airfield, the big Hollandia airdrome, was expected to fall momentarily to pincer forces, ending the assault phase of a big military operation undertaken last Saturday. On the west, a force has moved 11 miles to the edge of the 'drome. On the east, another force is nearing a juncture.

At Madang, bypassed in the amphibious thrust into Dutch New Guinea, Australians, who for months had moved slowly coastward from the Ramu valley, overcame enemy rearguards to invest the supply base and its airfield on the shores of Astrolabe bay. Large quantities of supplies and equipment fell to the captors.

Entire Front Crumbling

The entire invasion front of 150 miles between Hollandia and Aitape was crumbling. Hollandia village was taken on the second day. Today headquarters announced the occupation Tuesday of Aitape, five miles from Tadji airdrome which the Americans seized on the first day of the invasion and now is used by the Fifth airforce.

Nowhere from Madang to Hollandia, between which some 60,000 Japanese are believed to be caught, was there a report of stiff enemy opposition. The thousands of Sixth army troops now about to join their pincers along a 34-mile road linking the original beachheads at Tanahmerah and Humboldt bays in the Hollandia sector were slowed mainly by

SENATE VOTES BALLOT BILL

Upper House Moves with Unprecedented Speed To Pass Measure.

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., April 27—The Ohio senate, moving with unprecedented speed, approved unanimously today the administration's soldier vote bill which even the Democratic minority described as a "model" and the finest ever offered in Ohio.

The vote was 42 to 0 and the bill was hurried to the house where, despite earlier predictions action would not come until tomorrow, there were indications it might get its approval yet today.

The heavy Republican majority brushed aside all efforts to revise the bill on the floor, voting down amendments by Sen. Maurice W. Lischer (D-Mahoning) to permit any qualified elector to apply for a ballot for a serviceman, and to permit use of the federal soldier ballot as a supplement to the state ballot.

The Ohio ballot will permit a service man to vote on local, state and federal races, while the congressional-approved ballot provides only for presidential, senatorial and congressional races.

William Boyd, Democratic floor leader, said the act was the "finest" ever introduced in the assembly here and should serve as a "model" to other states.

"Governor Dewey, like Governor Bricker, should call a special session and keep step with progress," he remarked from the floor.

The senate action came shortly after the house elections committee approved a companion bill unanimously.

The house committee made only minor corrections in the bill and voted it out after killing, 10 to 3, a measure by Rep. William F. Elrick (D-Cuyahoga) to rejoin the state and federal ballots which were separated by a special session four years ago.

The committee acted unanimously after rejecting an amendment by Sen. Maurice W. Lipscher (D-Mahoning) which would have permitted labor and fraternal organizations to apply for ballots for their members. The bill provides that only close relatives may perform that function.

Phil Hanna, secretary-treasurer of the Ohio Federation of Labor, and T. J. Duffy, attorney for the organization, urged that the field for ballot application be broadened, but the committee stuck with the original version. Otherwise, the labor spokesman said, they were satisfied with provisions of the measure.

The assembly was working toward a goal of cleaning up the business by tomorrow night.

Democratic members of both houses, however, were hopeful that Gov. Bricker would allow the session to consider other subjects, such as additional state funds for local governments and an increase in the election day voting hours, now fixed at 6:30 a. m. to 6:30 p. m.

Session Is Limited

A special session is limited to consideration of the subjects submitted by the governor, and Bricker's message last night dealt exclusively with soldier voting.

The senate rejected a bill by Senator William Boyd (D) of Cleveland to make the voting

TROOPS CARRY COMPANY HEAD FROM OFFICE

Atty. General Biddle Orders Action, Charging Executive Fails To Cooperate.

By The Associated Press

CHICAGO, April 27—Two soldiers of the Army detail which seized the Montgomery Ward and Co. Chicago plant forcibly ejected Sewell L. Avery, 69, company chairman, today from his own offices which he refused to yield to authority even of President Roosevelt.

The troopers carried Avery bodily out of the administration building.

Attorney General Francis Biddle said ejection of the uncompromising foe of the government procedure invoked after a labor dispute was ordered after Avery refused to cooperate with the government officials who have taken charge.

Biddle Describes Ejection

Biddle outlined to reporters the dramatic occurrences preceding Avery's ejection. He said the government was in possession, intended to remain in possession and was anxious that the business be conducted without interruption and with the company staff continuing in operation.

"When Mr. Avery reported at his office at 9:55 a. m. we asked him if he would cooperate and he refused to do so," Biddle said. "Mr. Avery was asked to turn over company books to government bookkeepers so they could set up new books. He refused.

"Mr. Avery told us he was the boss and would continue to do things his way or not at all. We asked Mr. Avery if he would advise his staff to cooperate and he refused and said he would instruct them to do the opposite."

Biddle said that then, "in view of his refusal to cooperate with the United States government, Mr. Avery was told that he desired him to leave the plant. He refused to leave voluntarily.

"Mr. Taylor (Wayne C. Taylor, undersecretary of commerce who took charge of the plant operations) on my advice instructed Maj. J. R. Weber (in charge of the Army detail) to conduct Mr. Avery out of the building and not to let him return.

Carried Out of Plant

"Mr. Avery resisted and was carried bodily out of the plant.

"When he is ready to cooperate with us and the United States government we will be glad to have him back."

The entire dispute centered on the fact that Avery refused to comply with directives by the war labor board and President Roosevelt that Ward's extend a contract with a CIO union pending further determination of the union's claim to majority representation.

Taylor, who took charge yesterday under instructions from the secretary of commerce, backed by the secretary of war under White House direction, said today that "Mr. Biddle is here to advise me as operating manager for the U. S. government."

Taylor added that "we have done everything possible to obtain cooperation of Mr. Avery and his staff but thus far it turns out that that is impossible. Therefore we intend to operate this plant and hope to do so without loss of efficiency in the operating staff and employes and without loss to stockholders."

Biddle arrived by plane, accompanied by Hugh B. Cox, assistant solicitor general. They went to the Drake hotel.

Biddle reportedly conferred at breakfast with Wayne C. Taylor, undersecretary of commerce, who yesterday took charge of Ward's under authority of the secretary of commerce acting at President Roosevelt's direction and with support of the secretary of war after Sewell L. Avery, chairman of Montgomery Ward, twice re-

Tired Kidneys Often Bring Sleepless Nights

Doctors say your kidneys contain 15 miles of tiny tubes or filters which help to purify blood and keep you healthy. When kidneys get tired and don't work right in the day, many people have to get up nights. Frequent or scanty passages with smarting and burning sometimes shows there is something wrong with your kidneys or bladder. Don't neglect this condition and lose valuable, restful sleep.

When disorder of kidney function permits poisonous matter to remain in your blood it may also cause nagging backache, rheumatic pains, leg pains, loss of pep and energy, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headaches and dizziness.

Don't wait! Ask your druggist for Doan's Pills, used successfully by millions for over 40 years. They give happy relief and will help the 15 miles of kidney tubes flush out poisonous waste from your blood. Get Doan's Pills.

"E" AWARD IS WON BY BLIND

Production Broom Factory Also Makes Packing Bags.

By JEANETTE SMITS
International News Correspondent

NEW YORK—The blind men [illegible] the first broom factory in the United States to have won the Army-Navy "E" aren't going to rest on their laurels.

Added to the 12,000 brooms and mops which the 159 blind men in the Industrial Home for the Blind in Brooklyn produce every week for the armed forces, the workers are engaged in a new industry.

They manufacture cloth bags in which brooms and mops are packed for shipments to the troops. The output is sufficient to meet their own government contracts, and in addition the home is supplying bags to other war industries and essential consumer trades.

Production Still Rising

The men make the bags with the aid of an automatic cloth-cutting machine, donated to the home by H. Walter Gilbert, head of a New York cutting-room appliance firm, explained Peter J. Salmon, director of the institution.

"The machine," he added, "solved our problem."

It is operated by one blind man who is capable of turning out the work of two men with normal vision spreading by hand. As a result, the 26 men working in the little department are making all those special bags that are needed, and production has been increased above what it was the year we won the 'E'."

Work to fill government needs is going on in every department of the home. In the mica department, 30 blind men are executing a difficult job which even most people with sight couldn't do without precision instruments. They gauge mica to the thinness of one-one-thousandth of an inch by first running their fingers over the mica segments, then splitting the mica with knives.

Twin Brothers Among Workers

Included among the 60 workers in the broom department are twin brothers, who have been sightless from birth. One is left-handed, the other right-handed. They stand facing each other making brooms, and so precise are their movements that they might be reflections in a mirror.

The man who has established the highest production record in the broom department is a former coal miner of 32, who was blinded about a year ago. He came to the Home six months ago.

Not only are the blind men striving to aid the war effort—they are active in war bond drives and donate blood to the Red Cross for plasma. Their record shames those of most war plants, for absenteeism is less than one per cent.

What's more, they're not even content with the coveted Army-Navy "E." Now they're striving for the star, for which they will be eligible within the next six months.

That Grass Shack in Hawaii Is Just A Dream To Forget

By The Associated Press

HILO, Hawaii — From a strictly realistic real estate point of view, the average American had better kiss goodbye to that pipe dream of getting a little grass shack in the Sandwich isles and letting the world go by.

Three peacetime barriers will prove more formidable than the anti-aircraft guns and barbed wire which now ring the Hawaiians. They are the Big Five, the Bishop Estate and the land laws.

The Big Five is a group of companies (actually more than five) which control practically everything from pineapples to banking and shipping. No one can build anything larger than a corner grocery without their say so.

The Bishop estate, which controls three-fourths of the habitable land in Hawaii, never sells any land at all. Most Hawaiian houses for sale are literally that, with no land to go with them except on lease from the estate.

Native Hawaiians own some property but the problem is not which, but how many, own each tract. Under the old monarchy, all land reverted to the crown when each new king ascended the throne and he parceled it out again. The laws were just foggy enough so that a grant by King A has some legal status after King B put a new owner on the property. Then came the grants by Kings C and D.

The same land muddle extends to most of the coral atolls in the Pacific. Tarawa, Funafuti and Makin islands have every square foot above water alloted to native owners under old Polynesian law. The tracts run the gamut of all shapes, including circles and stars.

JANITOR HAS HIS WAY
By The Associated Press

PORTLAND, Ore.—The Boy Scouts, the Veterans' Guard and the public that wanted to make post-war plans were turned away from Fernwood school where their meetings were scheduled to take place. The public did not come in.

REVIEW NEXT STEP IN ARMY TRIAL

By The Associated Press

CINCINNATI, April 27—Three army air force officers today awaited review by high officials of court martial verdicts dismissing them from the service on charges arising from a Truman (senate) committee investigation of the Wright Aeronautical Co.'s huge airplane plant here.

The three found guilty of neglect of duty in inspection practices by a military tribunal yesterday are Lt. Col. Frank C. Greulich, 53, former chief inspection officer for the AAF materiel command; Maj. Walter A. Ryan, 46, former district inspection officer, and Maj. William Bruckmann, 50, Cincinnatian who was AAF resident officer at the plant.

They may have to wait months to learn if the court martial verdict stands. The army code calls for review of the sentences by Maj. Gen. James L. Collins, chief of the Fifth service command who appointed the tribunal, and the judge advocate general's department in Washington. The cases could go, as well, to the secretary of war and the President. Reviewing officials can reduce the penalty, but may not increase it.

Opened April 3, the trial ended yesterday with three-hour deliberation by the court, and the pronouncing of sentence.

out a company of Germans and seized "a height of great importance," while more than 800 Germans were killed in a second clash in an unidentified sector of the second Ukraine front.

The Nazis lost 52 tanks and 79 planes over the whole front Tuesday, the Russians declared.

(A Romanian communique, broadcast from Bucharest and recorded by U. S. government monitors, declared the Russians had launched new attacks north of Iasi, capital of the Romanian province of the same name, and said heavy fighting was in progress. The bulletin also asserted further Russian attempts to widen the Soviet bridgehead on the lower Dnestr had been repulsed.)

YANKS HAVE LONDON CLUB

Mansion Taken Over by Red Cross Provides Recreation Center.

By DIXIE TIGHE

International News Correspondent.

LONDON—On the fringe of London the Red Cross has taken over a former mansion and turned it into a G. I. club.

Except for the structural grandeur there is little left to suggest the great social elegance of the household. There is now a warm, friendly, relaxed air and the only human link to the past is a butler who served the Master of the Mansion in peace time.

Ahearne Visited There

Before the war, Brian Ahearne was a frequent visitor there—he made a distinct hit with the butler who tacked a small card over one of the bedrooms marked: "Mr. Brian's room."

When the movie star married Joan Fontaine, the butler hospitably labelled another room, "Mrs Brian's Room"—the friendly placards are still over the doors.

This particular club seems to give the men more freedom than any of the many Red Cross clubs I have visited. There is no regimentation, no organized amusement and the woman who presides over the club, Lady Dovendale, has her own ideas about making an overseas home for the boys.

More Like a Home

She feels the boys want to get away from things military when they come there and it is her intention to make the club homey and not clubby.

"The boys want to be mothered," Lady Doverdale said, "and I never heard of a mother appearing in the living room and saying, 'Now, boys, at three o'clock we will have a lecture on Ancient Architecture.'"

Neighbors drop into the club to invite the boys for meals and walks and cycling. But there is nothing organized about these invitations. There are attractive young Red Cross workers about, available for card games, as ping pong partners, as added dart throwers.

The popularity of the club is evidenced by a sign on a blackboard which says:

"Sorry. We can't hold mattresses after 10 p. m." The club has a very limited number of beds but a good number of mattresses can be placed on the floor of the former drawing room.

As for the butler who once chilled or warmed fine wine, he is now a handy man with a bottle opener and can do a quick job on decapping soft drink bottles.

Officers Are Welcome

This is one club where the GIs have enjoyed officers as long as they aren't from their own camps. The rank of the same hearth is inclined to get too bossy the boys find, but there is fine fraternizing between visiting officers, including many Polish officers, and the boys.

The club is also very popular with dogs who have vast areas to romp in. These are like compared with the two pets owned by General Eisenhower and General Eaker.

Had To Leave Dogs

General Eaker could not bring Winston, his English sheepdog pal to North Africa, so now a dog-house-guest at the general's friends.

General Eisenhowers dog, a Scottish terrior, has been ordered to quarantine according to English law. England's strict law stamped out rabies in this country.

Prof. Julius H. Frandsen of Massachusetts State college estimates that about 150 pounds of milk sugar will be needed during 1944 for the making of penicillin and other vital war products.

Training a Musical Prodigy Flattens Dad's Bank Notes

By JOHN SELBY
Associated Press Arts Editor

NEW YORK—Some day you, [illegible] have a prodigy born into [illegible], so you might as well [illegible] it's been with young Richard Korbel. At ten Richard, [illegible] and already a fine one, [illegible] two recitals in New [illegible] Town Hall, and now is [illegible] for another on May [illegible] Carnegie Hall.

Richard is a well grown kid [illegible] years, rather on the dark [illegible] inclined toward shyness [illegible] elders, but in com- [illegible] himself and even bet- [illegible] ter in command of a piano. He can get through the Chopin B Flat Minor sonata with agility, and he seems to know pretty well what it means.

Richard was about seven months old when his parents Mr. and Mrs. Bert Korbel noticed that he could carry a tune; before he was a year and a half he knew 25 tunes and his parents knew something had better be done.

First Instrument A Spoon

When he was introduced to a piano, a year later, he stopped singing and beating time with his spoon. He never has sung since, and never stopped playing the piano either.

RICHARD KORBEL
His Fingers Talk

His mother and he began taking lessons together, but Mrs. Korbel couldn't keep up. Finally Richard was turned over to an American-born but German and French trained pianist, Hedy Spietler; for the last few years he has gone to the Spietler school at 9 o'clock each morning, and come home at 5 each night.

He studies piano with Miss Spietler, theory with her brother William, and he gets all his academic studies in the school in addition. He spends about five hours a day on music, but not in a lump. There are play and academic periods mixed in, and when he comes home he usually gets out his roller skates and takes a whirl on 72d street, where the family apartment is — a fourth-floor walkup.

Family Investment

Fact is, Mr. and Mrs. Korbel admit, most of the family surplus, sometimes more, has gone into Richard's training. They have turned down a number of fantastic offers—pianists who sniffed talent, and publicity, and wanted to take on the whole load.

Still, Richard has been caught up in the whirl. He has acquired a go-getter manager, done a television show with great success, and afterward was invited to play for David Sarnoff. He has been interviewed on the radio, learned that when he plays he must pay a union stand-in, run afoul of child labor laws in a few places, has a tour booked, and has received a movie offer—all at ten years.

I suspect he also is purposeful. When I asked him what he wanted most besides a bicycle, he said, very simply, "I'd like to be a great pianist."

NEVADA LEGION ELECTS

NEVADA—Officers were elected and will be installed soon by American Legion Post No. 462: Fred Schenk, commander; first vice commander, Bill Frost; second vice commander; Raymond McLaughlin, adjutant; Luther Kinsey, chaplain; Charles Young, sergeant at arms; F. H. Grubel, service officer; Ralph Frost, Raymond Creger and Ray Alban, trustees; N. R. Gilliland, finance officer. Arrangements were made for Memorial Day services at Nevada cemetery on May 30.

Hudson Boat Fights Again

By International News Service

NEW YORK—For the second time in her 31 years, the Hudson River Day Line boat DeWitt Clinton has gone to war.

The 4,000-ton, 320-foot craft which carried thousands of pleasure-bent New Yorkers up the Hudson to Bear Mountain, Indian Point, Poughkeepsie, and Albany, was converted into a troop transport recently in one of the East Coast shipyards of the Bethlehem Steel Corporation.

Her gay, white superstructure is gone. Her wooden decks have been replaced by steel, and she carries armor plate. The DeWitt Clinton also has a new name—but that's a military secret.

She Was Built in 1913

The ship was built in 1913 by the Harlin and Hollingsworth shipyards at Wilmington, Del., for the Central Vermont Transportation Co. Named the Manhattan, she was originally intended for service between Providence, R. I., and New York, but was never used in that run. Instead, she languished without furnishings at piers, first at Wilmington, Del., and later at New London, Conn.

The DeWitt Clinton really came into her glory after the United States entered World War I, in 1917, when she was purchased by the Navy, fitted and reinforced and renamed the Nopatin. The ship was sent to England for service in ferrying troops across the English Channel to France.

Bought by Day Line

She carried 50,000 troops across the Channel before she was returned to the United States and bought by the Hudson River company.

Renamed the DeWitt Clinton, the liner made excursion trips up and down the Hudson from 1921 until 1932, but during the depression years was laid up when a dearth of passengers for the one-day trip made operation unprofitable.

From June to September, 1938, she again made trips up the river, and then was again set aside until the War Shipping Administration took her over.

"Events Have Controlled Us"

GOV. BRICKER'S address before the Ohio Society of New York Tuesday night is a complete answer to the problem of making foreign policy understandable.

Speaking the kind of language Americans can understand and expressing ideas they believe in, Gov. Bricker did more to shake the horse feathers out of foreign policy in an hour than administration apologists have done in six months. The reason is obvious: Gov. Bricker was not talking about horse feathers, but common sense.

He believes this country has been involved in two major wars against its will because it failed to keep pace with its expanding importance in international affairs—"events have controlled us." He proposes that henceforth we should try to control events.

He believes international security can be attained only by going to the mat with the realities which undermine it—bad tariff laws, monopolies, frictions in international exchange, cartels, barter systems and other barriers to cooperation and goodwill. He does not believe either goodwill or peace can be bought by squandering America's wealth or by merely expressing high ideals.

He believes the United States can help itself and its international neighbors by taking a more active role in world affairs. But it must be a role of dignity, clear purpose and unfaltering determination to carry out American principles.

Gov. Bricker believes the first step should be projection into the post-war period of existing collaboration among the United States, Great Britain and Russia, the existing strong powers, and China, the potential strong power.

The second step should be the widening of four-power collaboration into the multi-powered collaboration of all the United Nations to deal with the continuing problems of international security.

The third step, following organization of a "cooperative organization of sovereign nations," is a continuing study of the causes of war, with emphasis on stabilization of international exchange and restoration of the gold standard.

The fourth step, to be taken inside the United States, is development of a consistent, competent foreign policy, to make plain to other nations exactly what the United States stands for and what it intends to do.

Gov. Bricker puts his faith in establishment of a reign of law—"a cooperative organization of sovereign states, bent upon peace and supported by a will for peace among their peoples."

His speech makes sense at home, and it will make sense abroad. It is a complete answer to every critic, either malicious or uninformed, who has tried to find in Gov. Bricker and in the section of America which he represents any evidence of failure to understand the problem of international security. It is, significantly, an enlargement of the principles expressed by Republican leaders last year at the Mackinac conference.

Gov. Bricker's stature as a spokesman for the Republican party has increased consistently during his speaking tours in recent weeks and now is rounded out. He has made a distinguished contribution to the American tradition of letting the people know what their political leaders stand for, with faith in the people's ability thereafter to make the right decision.

Eyes for Invasion

NO single aspect of aviation's military usefulness is discussed less than observation, obviously one of its most useful applications. The airplane was the answer in World war I to the problem of information. It gave eyes to the general staff. Before the advent of dependable planes, the balloon was the only answer; before the balloon, a soldier perched in a tree, or a commanding general standing on a high point of land were the only means of following the battle.

It now is evident from communiques that Allied air power swung into the attack on railroad yards and airfields which must precede invasion. But it is doing something else—has been doing it for months. Aerial observers are keeping the combined chiefs of staff informed about the invasion terrain. They are reporting hour by hour the effect of the preliminary barrage of the invasion area. Their cameras are furnishing up-to-the-minute photographs. When the invasion begins, the whole picture of the massive operation can be made available to the Allied staff as it unfolds. It has been a long time since lack of eyes made generals and their armies get lost and stay lost for days; a half-hour flight today would find them and bring them back into the fold. The airplane has done many things to change the nature of war, but on the eve of the greatest military project of all time it has done nothing more important than removal of guesswork from military operations.

So They Say—

Russia and the United States represent two extremes, and their inevitable competition for world markets will have about it something truly titanic. One is people's capitalism at its best, the other state capitalism at its strongest.

News Behind the News

Grand Air Assault on Europe Aimed at Crushing German Air Force.

By PAUL MALLON

WASHINGTON, April 27—This grand air assault on Europe is designed primarily to crush the German air force—first requisite to invasion by land.

Some say the campaign started 12 to 15 days ago, but it actually appeared first in February. Then the scale of attack was enlarged toward the point where, as many as 5,000 to 6,000 planes, could be used within a 24-hour period from United Kingdom airfields.

That top record was reached last week-end, but the use of 3,000 planes in attack within 24 hours has been a regular and practically continuous event for nine weeks, interrupted at periods by weather. You can measure the score of this effort when you consider that the height of the German assault on England never mustered more than 500 planes.

Concentration on a specific type of target also developed about the same time. Each day's communiques lately have revealed attacks centered upon airplane factories and airfields, with side attention occasionally to related plants, such as the ballbearing works at Berlin and Schweinfurt.

Secondary Targets

Secondary targets in the past few days have been rail communications and military installations along the northwestern coast, which are the final air requisites in preparation for invasion. (Such tactics lead the way to be ready for land assault every day.)

The individual air attacks upon specific areas have brought as many as 1,500 planes into single-headed action. The results have not been specifically estimated except that unofficial guesses out of London calculate nearly 4,000 German planes destroyed since Jan. 1, and 5,000 more indirectly destroyed from the bombing of the aircraft factories.

Also, War Secretary Stimson has mildly estimated 20 per cent of the German air force now eliminated. Incidentally, the Germans have been practicing a policy of extreme conservation the last few weeks. They no longer send up their planes unless our attack is aimed at an extremely important target. They are saving every ship they can for the invasion hour.

Measure Damage

There is hardly a chance that we are being fooled as to the extent of the damage. True, the Germans are exceptionally clever at air camouflage, once built a fake bridge across the Rhine to deceive our airmen. But our people take extensive air photographs after raids, not only of the target hit, but of adjoining territory. These are pieced together carefully and compared with old photographs in such a way as to make deception on any grand scale improbable.

Now the new grand American air assault into southeastern Europe from Italian bases—generally handled in headlines as a similar action—has an entirely different character. There, our planes are simply doing their utmost to help the Russians.

Since the Reds drove the Nazis against the Carpathian mountains, the only German rail communication to its southwestern front is through the roundabout line of the Danube valley.

Helping Russians

Therefore, we have concentrated on the railroad yards in Budapest, even damaged river shipping on the Danube, and no longer seek out the valuable oil fields when we go to Ploesti. Instead, we hit the railroads there.

In fact, our rail bombing has extended to even Bucharest and Sofia. This is an immediate problem. When it is passed, the planes from the Italian front can also concentrate on targets designed primarily to crush German air power.

It would be dangerous to attempt invasion as long as Hitler can muster a formidable air force. His air arm must be crushed either now or in battles over the landing troops.

But once our firm air control is established and German troops have no air cover, they will know how the French and British infantry felt, exposed to bombing attack in France, and the terrors we suffered at Bataan when our air force was gone.

Planes Over Open Country

In naturally well-covered territory, such as jungles, the exposure of infantry to air attack may not be important. Again, at Cassino and Anzio, where German artillery in surrounding hills are able to cover the lack of German air power, the result was not fatal. But in the open country of France, Belgium and Holland, it could be another story.

On much of that same ground, the German infantry, finding it dangerous or costly to attack certain strong points, has used its air power as artillery in closest coordination.

CONSTANCE ROBERTSON

"BUT this momentous question, like a fire bell in the night, awakened and filled me with terror." Thomas Jefferson wrote that to John Holmes in 1820, and he was writing about the slavery question. One of the innocent byproducts of his letter was the title for Constance Robertson's novel, "Fire Bell in the Night," which is one of the better spring examples. It also bears the signs of others to follow.

Miss Robertson has set her novel in Syracuse, N. Y., which town happened to be one of the eastern centers of the slave-running group, and also one of the places where the Abolitionists ran into serious competition. Her four chief characters are remarkably well done—Mahala North and her father, who buy a Syracuse tavern for use as a depot on the Underground Railroad; John Palfrey, who is a politically-minded young Syracuse politician fighting the Abolitionists, and Dallas Ord, a Southerner and a gentleman who is one of the slave runners, nevertheless.

Their differences are just as well drawn, too. Mahala's bitterness at the loss of her twin brother in the fight of the slaves has tied her to the movement, and to Ord as well. Her father is just as wholeheartedly in the fight, but his weapon is his shrewd good-humor rather than passion. And Palfrey is quite simply mad about Mahala, sincerely a defender of the Fugitive Slave Act, and strong enough to force Mahala into marriage in the face of local disapproval and the inner knowledge that she belongs irretrievably to Dallas Ord.

Obviously there is disaster in this set of relationships, and Miss Robertson prepares it and plays it out as high melodrama against a swift and sometimes lurid backdrop. The background and often the foreground, too, moves with the dark figures of Negroes streaming secretly north into Canada; with their pursuers, some decent and some otherwise, and with the track force of the Underground itself, busy night after night with their freight.

Miss Robertson's method is direct rather than deft, and she is handy with literary coincidences and the like. But she is also sincere.

Sedition

Although the anti-sedition sections of the 1917 espionage act are in force, they are not cited in the indictment standing against the 30 persons on trial in the district of Columbia for seditious conspiracy. They are accused of violating Sections I and III of the alien registration act of 1940.

Specifically, the indictment charges the defendants with circulating "Mein Kampf," the Nazi party program, "Welt Dienst," other German publications, and various domestic publications such as "The White Knight," "American Vigilante Bulletins," "Christian Mobilizer," "Roosevelt's Jewish Ancestry" and "National Socialism and Its Justification."

They are charged with using, supporting, or setting up a number of organizations to promote distribution of printed matter and of disseminating seditious statements. The alien registration act sections named in the indictment make it unlawful to influence the morale of the armed forces, to advocate overthrow of the government and to organize any group which has these aims. The penalty is imprisonment up to 10 years, or a fine up to $10,000, or both.

State Department Urged To Profit from Mistakes of U. S. in Past Years.

By WALTER LIPPMANN

BY calling in the bipartisan senate committee at this early stage Secretary of State Hull has shown that he does not intend to repeat President Wilson's error of drafting a covenant and then telling the senate to take it or leave it. But it is not yet clear that Hull and his immediate advisers have taken to heart some of the other great errors of the Wilsonian experiment.

Hull is the disciple and the heir of the Wilsonian internationalism and it is an exceedingly critical question whether he will try to follow the same or a different path to the Wilsonian objective. Thus far the signs are mixed, indicating that Hull himself is hesitating at the crossroad.

Experience has shown, so it seems to me, that Wilson's chief errors were:

He dissolved the wartime coalition and sought to replace it with a wholly new organization, the League. The right course would have been to maintain the coalition to administer the peace settlement with Germany and then to develop it gradually as a cooperative society for promoting good relations everywhere.

Wilson promulgated an elaborate code of principles which the other nations had to accept. If they did not accept them all, it was implied that the United States would not co-operate with them. The right course is to make continual consultation the paramount principle, and then by this consultation to develop an agreed code of principles.

Wilson sought to commit this country and all others to the use of military power, not for the specific object of enforcing a definite peace treaty, but as a generalized guaranty more or less everywhere forever. The attempt to combine his general code of principles with a general guaranty of military force opened up a prospect of unlimited intervention and entanglement.

Urges Avoiding Errors

We need not and should not fall again into these errors.

The Moscow agreements represent a fairly clear decision not to dissolve the wartime alliance but to have it make and enforce the settlements with the enemy, and to let it become the founder, organizer and guardian of the wider international association. This is an enormous advance over the Wilsonian approach in 1919.

The real difficulty which besets us now is, first, that we shall again make Wilson's error of insisting on a code of principles before we have insured continuing consultation; and second, that we shall again try to write into the new covenant a generalized commitment to use force.

If we put the code of principles, the Atlantic Charter, Hull's 17 points, or whatever, ahead of the agreement to consult and agree, we shall merely engender an endless series of ugly disagreements about the principles.

The place to contend for principles is at the council table. But first there must be a council table. There must be agreement to go to the council table, to remain at the council table, and to exhaust every conceivable means of reaching agreement at the council table.

Nobody, not Wilson in his study, not Churchill and Roosevelt on a battleship in the Atlantic, nor Hull and his committees, can draw up a comprehensive and definite code of international conduct. They can indicate a direction, propose a promising method, declare their ideals. But the international code will have to be evolved by agreement in concrete cases, established by habit, so that freedom slowly broadens down from precedent to precedent.

To put the code of principles ahead of the compact to consult and negotiate and agree, to make it the condition of a willingness to ratify the compact, it is fly in the face of all human experience.

The other pitfall is that another attempt may be made to have every nation commit itself to police every other nation. Such a generalized guaranty of force would be futile or dangerous.

It should, I believe, be confined to the enforcement of the terms of peace imposed upon Germany and Japan, and the pledge of force should be written not into the covenant of the world organization but into the treaties of peace with our enemies.

If that is done, it will bind together the United Nations to police the settlement for the critical years in which it will be an open question whether the Germans and the Japanese will reenter civilized society or once more rebel against it.

There is no point now in making commitments to police other nations. No one can foresee who might need to be policed. If anyone needs to be policed, no automatic pledge of force can be depended upon; in such an unforeseen event, the use of force will depend upon whether the other nations can then agree to use it.

We should, therefore, concentrate our main attention not upon a doctrinaire code of principles or upon automatic pledges of force, but upon the compact and means of consultation.

This is more than a question of mechanics, more than deciding how large the council shall be and how it shall be composed. It is fundamentally a question of reaching an agreement on the questions which the nations pledge themselves to consult about.

The heart of the compact should be, I believe, a list—intended to be a gradually longer list—of matters on which no nation will act without informing, explaining to, consulting, and trying to reach agreement with the others.

The Bitter Truth

By Truman Twill

The picture people are doing their custo job on the Victory Gardener. As they see he is always six feet tall, handsome, with hair combed and a pipe clutched comfort in his gleaming teeth.

You can see the teeth, because he is flas them in a friendly manner at the member his lovely family crawling up and down bet the rows while he leans comfortably on a s and watches them work.

He is giving the old goodwill business to lovely neighbors watching the busy scene their immaculate back yard, where they downing yummy beverages and just abou invite the Victory Gardener and his whole happy crew to come and join them.

The usual happy puppy is frisking on lawn—but not; of course, in the garden. T is the same, familiar freshly painted wh barrow in excellent repair and the same str rows of giant vegetables, all doing well, if you, and not a worm or bug in sight. A serene and lovely.

There is not a trace of the Victory Gard who goes to his task dressed in a pair of pants, an undershirt with a hole in it a pair of broken-down shoes, nor anything suggest that the place is over-run with w full of rocks and a former dumping ground tin cans.

The picture people never knew that the dogs in the vicinity of gardens spend their galloping back and forth over the seed pelted with clods and rocks on their retro rear ends; they never tumbled to the fact the only yummy beverages the neighbors on hand are locked up in the kitchen.

Someone should tip them off that chil wouldn't be caught dead pulling weeds u their old man threatened to cut off their with a hoe, and then would trample down precious vegetable for every weed they their hands on; the picture people must n have been told that women have enough s when the old man gardens to stay inside an him have his own way.

The real Victory Gardener's pipe is in hip pocket because the ashes spill out w he bends over. If anyone ever catches him ing on anything, he is trying to remember he did with the packet of carrot seeds whic was sure he put in his hip pocket.

The only giant vegetables in sight are pictures on the seed packets. The Vi Gardener is not handsome, not six feet tall his hair isn't combed. He is a scrunt and place where his hair used to be is covered battered hat to keep it from getting sunbu

If the picture people showed things as are, that would be the end of the Victory Ga movement, right there among the tin can cinders, the rocks, bugs, stray dogs and dren—with only a cabbage that didn't hea to mark the spot.

Prayers Answered

By The Associated Press

SANTA BARBARA, Calif. — Father Cyril Johann Fischer, a Franciscan monk once on the Gestapo death list, saw his prayers answered in naturalization court recently when he became a U. S. citizen.

Australian-born, Father Fischer was ordered in 1927 by his superiors to travel in Germany and study Nazism. For three years he gathered data for the first of a series of anti-Nazi books which were published in Vienna beginning in 1932. He was the object of death threats over the Munich propaganda radio station.

In 1938 Innsbruck headquarters of the order bade him flee for his life. When Austria fell, he fled to Hungary and finally by devious routes made his way to America.

One-Time Mansion Becomes a Church

By The Associated Press

NEW KENSINGTON, Pa.—The fabulous Richard B. Mellon mansion of Pittsburgh, torn down in 1940, has risen again—as the Catholic church of St. Peter on a hilltop overlooking this industrial community.

The house, once owned by the Pittsburgh banker-brother of former Secretary of Treasury Andrew Mellon, was dismantled after the city of Pittsburgh refused to accept it as a gift that involved waiving the $18,000 yearly taxes.

Father Nicola Fusco, large, stocky, 55-year-old priest, long has urged a new church because old St. Peter's was cramped with its growing congregation.

A former ward working for the Mellons finally persuaded him to visit the house, and out of that visit came the new St. Peter's.

A wrecking crew, paid by the church, dismantled the 65-room mansion, and for six months trucks hauled it piece by piece the 20 miles from Pittsburgh to New Kensington.

But Father Fusco, with his love for fine marbles and sculpture, removed these objects himself with the help of his building superintendent.

Every one of the 5,500 of the congregation had a hand in the building, and doctors and lawyers labored beside the workmen of the parish.

The mansion's brown stone was used for the outside, and red granite foundation stones became steps to the entrance. Nothing was thrown away. Even the carved oak panels of the dining room were turned into confession booths.

St. Peter's will be dedicated the Fourth of July.

Then Father Fusco and his flock will go to work again. They had enough material left over to build a school and a rectory.

Art at Paris (Tenn.)

By The Associated Press

PARIS, Tenn.—More than 100 oil paintings, including one attributed to Peter Rubens, Flemish old master, are on exhibition here at the home of W. P. Williams, publisher of the local Post-Intelligencer.

They are the inheritance of his wife from her uncle, James M. Cowan of Aurora and Chicago, who died in 1933 leaving most of his collection of 800 works of art to the city of Aurora, provided it build a school. Citizens of this city would erect a suitable building to house them. This condition was not met and Mrs. Williams received one-fourth of the collection.

Several of the important works will be hung in a bank and at the high school. Citizens of this city of 10,000 want to keep the paintings, prints and watercolors in Paris.

The U. S. automotive industry has a backlog of 42 years of production experience and 86,000,000 vehicles.

muddy jungle trails and swamps.

The only aerial retaliation by the Japanese reported thus far was a one-bomber raid on the Hollandia beachhead Sunday and a strike by 12 torpedo bombers at a destroyer off Hollandia Monday night. The warship escaped without damage.

23 Planes Destroyed

Allied airmen kept the enemy off-balance by destroying 20 parked planes and shooting down three interceptors in a raid on Kamiri airdrome on Geelvink bay, 400 miles northwest of Hollandia.

In northern Burma, Lt. Gen. Joseph W. Stillwell's Chinese troops appeared to have broken the back of Japanese resistance slowing the allied drive down the Mogaung valley. Southeast Asia headquarters announced the capture of Manpin village less than 35 miles from the key rail center of Mogaung.

Sporadic fighting continued on the outskirts of Kohima, advance point of the enemy's invasion of India, but Associated Press War Correspondent William Boni reported in a delayed dispatch from the northern India front that allied officers foresee a major defeat for the Japanese in their Burma-India campaign in view of the heavy enemy casualties. There has been no interruption in the flow of essential supplies to China or to allied troops in Burma, Boni said officers told him.

Mandalay Attacked

Adm. Lord Louis Mountbatten's communique said a heavy air attack was made on Mandalay last night, and American heavy bombers hit Monywa and Alon on the railway from Mandalay to Ye-U yesterday.

Central Pacific headquarters announced a two-day aerial strike at Paramushiro, Matsuwa and Shumushu islands in the far-north Kuriles Sunday and Monday, a 36-ton bombing raid on Truk in the Carolines, another blow at Ponape, Truk's eastern guardian, and a 138-ton smash at four by-passed Japanese bases in the eastern Marshall islands.

In northern China, Japan is reported to have drawn 18 divisions including many from Manchuria from a major campaign to link the north and south China operations by rail, Chinese headquarters said.

Enemy forces were reported to have turned from Chenghsien toward Tengfeng, 40 miles southwest, and Chinese admitted their troops had given ground at a midway point.

CHEYENNE, Wyo. — There's been Cattle Kate and Calamity

They cut fine figures in frontier days, but for determined, hard-working, energetic women Cheyenne takes its hat off to just plain old Grandma, of the war plant, as the woman of the centuries.

There are 54 grandmas at United Air Lines' huge Cheyenne modification center. Virtually all of them have a son or a grandson, or a brace or more of sons and grandsons, in the U. S. Air Corps. That's why the 54 grandmas sought jobs at the modification center. They wanted to help "the boys."

A modification center is a place where last-minute refinements, such as new and special hard-hitting machine guns, are placed on fighting planes after they leave the factories.

"These jobs were heaven-sent to give us grandmothers a way of helping our boys," says Mrs. Ada Millerman, young appearing despite her gray hair.

"And these grandmothers were sent from heaven to fill the jobs," echoes E. J. Golbos, personnel manager for the center, who has a remarkable story to tell about women.

The grandmothers have made excellent machinists, although many of them never had a monkey wrench or a riveting gun in their hands. They never loaf on the job. They seldom are sick. They've set a record on only three tenths of one per cent of "unauthorized" absenteeism.

"Why shouldn't we work hard?" asks Mrs. Millerman. "Every time I drive a rivet; every time I cut a piece of metal for one of our bombers you can be sure it is as near perfect as human hands can make it.

"You see, I have a son, Charles, who is in the Navy Air Forces, and he may be flying in this ship some day. I have a son-in-law, Kermit Moody, who is an aviation cadet in Kansas City. He, too, might fly one of these bombers.

"That's why we build more than rivets and metal into the ships we work upon. We lace them up in love, too, and ask God to bless them as they roll from our hangars."

Multiply by 54 what Mrs. Millerman has to say and you have the sentiments of these 54 grandmothers.

E. J. Golbos, personnel manager for the center, says the grandmothers are among the most efficient workers in the huge plant.

"What has occurred seems like a miracle, no less," he says. "These women had no mechanical skill when they started to mechanic's school. Within a matter of days they were accomplishing difficult shop jobs."

The 54 grandmothers have a total of 46 sons and 32 other near relatives in the service, most of them in the Air Corps. They have 138 grandchildren, the subject of most of their lunch time "gossip."

AIR RAIDS

war have been fought in the American blows on Schweinfurt.

The Nazi-controlled Paris radio declared Paris was under attack for more than an hour and said the raid "cost the lives of many Frenchmen." The RAF has been hitting steadily at prime rail targets in this sector.

The RAF strike against Essen and Schweinfurt followed an assault on Brunswick Wednesday by 250 to 500 American Fortresses and Liberators with 1 tons of bombs, in which no bomber was lost. No German fighters rose to challenge the bombers' large fighter escort.

Carrier-based British aircraft pounced on a German convoy off the coast of Northern Norway yesterday and damaged four ships and an escort vessel, the admiralty announced today.

The attack, the announcement said, took place in the vicinity of Bodo, just north of the Arctic circle.

"V--FILM" FOR PACKAGING
AKRON, O.—A new packaging material, utilizing a base of plastic resin and named "V-Film," has been developed by the Goodyear Tire & Rubber Co. research engineers. The company says the new "V-Film" is not a substitute for prewar Pliofilm, though it is described as superior in tear resistance. V-Film, it is said, is not as moistureproof as Pliofilm.

War-Time Matches Need Philosophy, Religion To Click

By The Associated Press

...RE, April 27—Give newlyweds some philosophy and re...—take it from a ...college professor—it'll ...make their marriage ...good help, too says, Dr. ...P. Hawes, philosophy ...who maintains that 50 ...war marriages are ...ed to failure.

...Hawes declared the successful war marriage depended, in essence, upon training in philosophy and religion.

The Army, taking cognizance of the problem, already is preparing text books for this sort of training, the professor said, adding that in Great Britain a similar army-sponsored program was working successfully.

"Any marriage is a risk. War marriages are a tremendous risk," Dr. Hawes stated.

Breaking down marriage into three basic levels—physical, romantic and idealistic—Dr. Hawes said that the first would account for the most divorces.

The second, which he described as the "egocentric, I-can't-live-without-you school," also would cause a large number of broken homes.

But the third, characterized as the "I-want-you-to-be-happy school" and which includes the first two levels, was based on a common devotion and carried the greatest assurance of success, he maintained.

Enrollment in this school, Dr. Hawes concluded, is strictly via the philosophy and religion method, properly applied.

UNITED WAR CHEST GETS LETTER OF RECOGNITION

Ohio Division of National War Fund Voices Praise.

The United War Chest of Marion County has been given recognition for its part in the financing of the national war fund with the presentation of a certificate to the president, J. E. Oliphant, from the National War Fund, Ohio Division, Inc.

The certificate, awarded in appreciation for outstanding cooperation and exceptional achievement in the drive last year, bears the signature of Charles E. Kennedy, president, and Oscar E. Barkey, chairman of the campaign committee.

The letter accompanying the certificate expressed satisfaction and pleasure in presenting the certificate and stated "it was a job well done—we congratulate you and commend you on your efforts." Recognizing that much of the success was due to the "untiring work of many faithful volunteers" the letter asked that the president express to them "our sincere appreciation for their part in making the 'lot' of many people throughout the world a little easier." The letter also bore the signatures of Mr. Kennedy and Mr. Barkey.

Invasion Range Increased

Made Possible by New Planes, but No Hope of Complete Strategic Surprise Is Seen.

By WES GALLAGHER
Associated Press Writer

LONDON—Despite a greatly increased range of invasion due to the development of new long range American fighter planes, the Allies have virtually no hope of achieving a complete strategic surprise in opening the Western Front.

There is no chance to achieve such a military advantage as was obtained in North Africa when the Germans were caught flat footed.

Two years ago North Africa, Norway, France, the Balkans, Italy were open for assault. Today any new blow must come from the west.

It has become an axiom of modern warfare that any large scale invasion, requiring days and weeks of steady fighting, must have the support of land-based fighter craft. Thus the possible points of any major thrust are limited to the fighter range of Allied aircraft based in Britain.

A few months ago this was little more than 100 miles. Then came the Salerno landing, supported by fighters based 250 miles away. Within the past two weeks, American P51s and P38s have flown and fought over Berlin 800 miles from England.

This new fighter range places all of the western coastline of Europe from Denmark to Spain within invasion range.

But behind the European west wall built by the Germans is a vast, efficient network of railroads and highways. As proven in Italy no amount of bombing can wholly block these arteries.

Then too the Germans can eliminate large sections as unsuitable for possible landings because of cliffs, unfavorable tides or bad beaches. By placing mobile armies at key points the Nazis can plug almost any point in this west wall quickly.

What the Allies can achieve is a tactical surprise.

The Germans will not know at where or when the heaviest blow will come. They will have to wait until the main effort develops and then it will be too late.

The Germans are certain to be able to move men faster by land than the Allies can by sea. In the initial stages they will enjoy a superiority in land forces. The Allies, however, will have sea and air superiority.

Granting that there cannot be any degree of strategic surprise the success or failure of the invasion then will depend on men and material.

"Yankee Doodle" was first sung by American troops in the Revolutionary war.

These Suggestions May Help Keep All Parts of House Comfortably Heated

One of the factors affecting comfort in our home is the temperature of the walls, ceiling, and floors. Regardless of what the temperature may be at eye level, which is the usual height of thermostats, we cannot be comfortable if the floor is cold, and the temperature of the air for 18 inches above it, is less than that at a higher level.

This problem is particularly acute where there is no basement, or where the basement does not extend under the entire house.

Mrs. G. H. of Cincinnati has this condition in the ell of her house. She writes:

"I guess you would call our house the rambling type. The main part of it is two stories high, with a one-story ell containing two bedrooms extending out on one side. We heat with a warm-air furnace, stoker-fired, but we never seem to be able to get enough heat to these two rooms. We have tried balancing the heating system as you recommend, and this helped some, but in spite of anything we can do, the floors of these rooms are always cold. The basement, which is always warm, is just under the main part of the house, with the warm air pipes running through the basement wall, over unexcavated ground, to the ell. The foundation is cement blocks with four ventilators in them to keep the timbers from rotting under the floor."

Since air circulation under the floor is not necessary in wintertime, the ventilators should be sealed off by wood or cardboard panels. This is true whether only part of the house or the entire house is over a basement. It would also be wise to remove some of the basement wall on the side toward the ell so heat from the basement may circulate under these rooms.

If this does not warm the floors properly, the floors should be insulated with rock-wool batts, or other insulating material, applied on the underside of the floor between the joists. If there are any cracks in the foundation, or if mortar is missing between blocks, these should be sealed. While it is possible to have a basement sealed too completely, that is, so that sufficient air will not leak in to permit proper combustion of the fuel, it is not necessary to have several windows open, or to have the basement so well ventilated that it will be cold. It is better to keep the windows closed and to seal up any cracks there may be in the basement walls. A warm basement tends to keep the floor of the rooms above it warm, and thus the heat in the basement is useful.

Appalachian Coals, Incorporated, Tranportation Building, Cincinnati, O., will be glad to give advice on any heating problem confronting you. Simply address a letter to the Chief Engineer, Appalachian Coals, Incorporated, setting forth your trouble and it will recieve a prompt reply. There is no charge for this service.

Or a letter to the same address will bring free a copy of Stoker Etiquette, which explains the proper method of operating a stoker, or a copy of a simple and concise Firing Chart. This chart shows how to fire from 30 to 60 pounds of coal at a time without making objectionable smoke or wasting fuel.

Silas Clay Gets Mad at Women's Hats

Silas Clay is complaining that his wife's new hat cost more than a bull calf. "And I wouldn't mind it if it was a hat," he says, "but all it is, is a small bow and a piece of feather."

"It isn't the size of the hat that counts," says Biron Earp, reproachfully.

"Well, what is it that counts?" asks Mr. exasperated.

"I'll tell you what it is that counts," says Doc. "It's the lift that a new hat gives to any woman. It sort of picks up their spirits . . . boosts morale. Little things can do that. Like the flower in your buttonhole," he says to Silas, "or that glass of beer that you're enjoying."

From where I sit, Doc has given us a mighty good definition of morale. Important little things. A flower in your buttonhole . . . a kind word from a stranger . . . a mellow glass of beer with friends. Little things especially important in these days of strain.

USES TO ASSIST MARITIME SERVICE

Provides Information to All Interested in Enlisting.

Arrangements for the Marion U. S. Employment Service office to refer qualified recruits to the nearest Maritime Service enlistment center were made at a conference yesterday of Fred E. Scherff, manager of the office, and Lieut. (J.G.) D. C. Phillips, regional enrolling officer.

The USES office has been supplied with full information about Maritime Service enlistments, and can furnish this to any interested person.

Contact was made with the USES office in an effort to step up enlistments to meet an Ohio-Kentucky area quota of 3,000 men by June, Lieut. Phillips said. He added that recruitment activities also were being increased to offset the ban on enlistment of men under 26, which recently went into effect.

The new arrangement, he said, is expected to provide a local preliminary screening of applicants and eliminate red tape and delays. Men who qualify for the service will be sent to the training station at Sheepshead Bay, N. Y., and assigned to cargo ships for ocean shipment after graduation. Men between 26 and 35 can qualify for engine department training, while those between 26 and 50 can qualify for steward department assignments. Cleveland and Cincinnati Maritime Service Offices are now being kept open seven days a week.

Couple Near Green Camp Celebrate Sixtieth Wedding Anniversary

MR. AND MRS. JACOB WASSERBECK

Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Wasserbeck celebrated their sixtieth wedding anniversary Monday, April 17, at their home four miles west of Green Camp. Dinner was served to about 40 relatives. The home was decorated with flowers which were gifts from the grandchildren of the couple.

Mr. Wasserbeck will be 82 years on July 7, and Mrs. Wasserbeck will be 83 on June 16. They were married in Prospect by Rev. Philip Ruhl in the parsonage of the Evangelical and Reformed church of which they are still members. They started housekeeping in a log house on the same farm on which they still live. Later they built a home in which they celebrated their fiftieth anniversary ten years ago. Thirteen days later the house burned to the ground. Since that time they have built a bungalow in which they live at present.

They have four children, four granddaughters and nine great-granddaughters.

Before her marriage, Mrs. Wasserbeck was Miss Elzenia Ruth. She lived on a farm near Mr. Wasserbeck's parents. The couple are in good health. They plan to have a large garden as usual this year. They drive their own car and Mrs. Wasserbeck does her own housekeeping.

A program preceding the dinner Sunday included a talk by Mrs. Wasserbeck's brother, Ed Ruth, a recitation by Tommy Reynolds, great grandson, a duet by Mrs. George Reynolds and Mrs. Harry Lyons, a song by George Reynolds, a short talk and a prayer by Rev. Edgar Guinther, pastor of the First Evangelical and Reformed churches of Prospect and Green Camp.

Those present were Joseph Wasserbeck, Mr. and Mrs. Chris Wasserbeck, Mr. and Mrs. Ed Ruth, Albert Ruth, Mr. and Mrs. Milton Flach, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Lauer, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Wasserbeck, Mr. and Mrs. George Reynolds and family, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Lyons and family, Mr. and Mrs. Delbert Lichtenberger and family, Bing Dickason, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Parratt, Rev. and Mrs. Guinther and Miss Anna Drake. A grand daughter, Mrs. Park Ridge of near Bellefontaine was unable to attend.

Marion Kiwanis club is joining Kiwanis International in observing the period from April 23 to April 28 as United States-Canada Goodwill Week. In joining with other clubs the Marion club is taking part in an observance which has been commended by both President Roosevelt and W. L. Mackenzie King, prime minister of Canada.

The President, commenting on observance of the week, said the peaceful relationship between Canada and this country is based on "positive liking, admiration and trust of each other."

In a special message to Kiwanis members throughout the country the President declared that "great walls and Maginot lines have never succeeded in maintaining peace between nations."

"We have stronger stuff than steel and masonry to rely upon. And this is the fact that the people of the United States and Canada like, admire and trust each other."

At the same time Mr. King said that since the outbreak of war "the sense of cooperation which has animated the efforts of the United States and Canada has added new lustre to our common heritage of free government and free institutions."

"I COULDN'T STAND HARSH LAXATIVES!

Kellogg's All-Bran Brought Relief!" Says Ex-Sufferer!

If you, too, are a sufferer, be sure to read this unsolicited letter!

"My system was clouded, after I'd been sick, and I couldn't stand harsh laxatives. I tried KELLOGG'S ALL-BRAN, and found it was grand. We have a box of it in the house all the time. Just for variety, several times a week, we mix a small portion of other cereals with the ALL-BRAN! It's delightful! And we still get the benefits from the ALL-BRAN." Mrs. Joseph W. Foote, 26 Englewood Ave., Buffalo, N. Y.

What's the secret of such amazing relief for so many? Simply this! KELLOGG'S ALL-BRAN can "get at" constipation due to lack of certain "roughage" elements in the diet—because it is one of Nature's most effective sources of these elements! Two tbls. daily, in severe cases due to lack of roughage, may help relieve constipation due to lack of roughage. For sale at all grocers. Get ALL-BRAN today! Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek.

Gen. Coxey, 90, Hopes To Finish Capital Speech

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., April 27.—Ninety-year-old "General" Jacob S. Coxey of Massillon, O., who led "Coxey's army" upon Washington a half century ago, said today he would attempt to mark the anniversary May 1 with an address from steps of the national capital.

"But this time I'll keep off the grass," grinned Coxey, vigorous despite his age and picturesque in a wing collar.

He was refused permission to make the address 50 years ago and was fined $5 and costs and sentenced to 20 days in jail for walking on the grass.

Former Ohio Wesleyan 'P.K.' in War Zone

SOMEWHERE IN ITALY—Miss Dorothy E. White, American Red Cross girl, the first to land in Europe, is shown loading doughnuts for an evacuation hospital. She runs a bakery where thirty natives help her turn out tons of sinkers and cookies for the boys. Like most "preachers' kids" on a college campus, she was known at Ohio Wesleyan, her alma mater, as a "P. K." Now it would seem that her present job reverses the title. She is the daughter of the late Rev. P. E. White, Ohio Methodist minister. Since college Miss White has been in public relations work in New York City and, until entering war service, was a popular member of the Publicity Club of New York.

FOR SUMMER. Ensign Eloise English of Washington, D. C., wears the new summer uniform for the WAVE officers. The dress is of gray and white pinstriped seersucker tailored in shirtwaist style with an inset belt and kick pleats. Ties and gloves are black and plastic buttons dark blue. The shoes are black.

3rd Anniversary Is Celebrated by Marion Sorority

A BANQUET and program last evening at Hotel Harding was in observance of the third anniversary of the organization of Zeta Theta chapter, Alpha Iota sorority. Miss Manzo gave a resume of the chapter's aims and activities and a toast to the sorority was given by Miss Geneva Albert. The program included music by Miss Rachael Baker and group singing. At the close of the banquet the members renewed their pledge of allegiance to the sorority principles in a candlelight ceremony.

Entertainment for the evening was a play, "She Writes a Roof." Taking part were Miss Martha Fabian, an author, Miss Jo Ann Creasap, her daughter, Miss Josephine Bruno, a maid, and Miss Elizabeth Haberman, a secretary. The play was directed by Miss Geneva Albert.

WARD CO. SEIZURE. Steel-helmeted military policemen [illegible] Camp Skokie Valley, Ill., are shown as they arrived at the plant of the Montgomery Ward & Co. in Chicago to take over the huge mail order house under orders of President Roosevelt. The Army was called in when the company president, Sewell Avery, refused to turn over the plant to commerce department officials as designated by the government. The original presidential order had directed the firm to extend an expired contract with a CIO union pending a determination whether it should continue to be regarded as the bargaining agency. A 12-day warehouse union strike had ended the day before U. S. marshalls moved into the plant. (International News Photo.

and negroes in a southern community, with sex having a prominent part, the leading characters being a white man and a negro girl.

Frank Taylor, a member of the firm of Reynald and Hitchcock, publishers, issued the following statement after the hearing:

"The publisher of the book and the Civil Liberties union are glad of this opportunity to carry this case to the highest court for final determination. Reynald and Hitchcock do not publish obscene books, never have and never will. "Strange Fruit" is a classic of our day. We are confident that the higher courts will recognize its merits."

Chicago Man Laughs at Superstitions and He Doesn't Believe in Bad Luck

By The United Press

CHICAGO — Nathaniel Leverone, whose office number is 13 and who owns state and city auto licenses numbered 1313, believes that superstitious people have bad luck.

"They worry a lot," said Leverone, who is president of the anti-superstition league as well as chairman of the board of the Automatic Canteen Corp. "They fuss and fume about black cats and ladders, and they forget things that are important."

Otherwise, and in the true sense of the term, Leverone doesn't believe that any such thing as bad luck exists.

"Superstitious people just don't have a true sense of values," he said. "They call that bad luck. I don't."

The worst thing that happens to Leverone because of his license number is his inability to get garage attendants to change his license plates or to park his car for him. Once, he said, he had to walk a half mile in white tie and tails and through a downpour, because obdurate doormen wouldn't touch his car.

Leverone goes as far as he can in flouting superstitions, just to show that they don't mean anything. His license plates are examples, and so is the anti-superstition league, which he helped found in 1933.

"Before the war we held meetings every Friday the 13th," he said. "We had 13 people at 13 tables. They all had to walk under a ladder to get into the banquet room and they opened umbrellas as soon as they came in.

"The master of ceremonies smashed a mirror with a gavel every time he called for order, and the meetings were in Room 13 on the 13th floor of the Blackstone hotel, one of the few hotels in Chicago that has a 13th floor."

The league had 13 founders, including the late Charlie Walgreen, the drug magnate; Sidney Strotz, vice president of the National Broadcasting Co., and Gov. Dwight Green of Illinois.

After the first meeting, Leverone remembered, Strotz smashed up his car on the way home. He hasn't attended since.

But otherwise no bad luck came to any of the members while they were holding the meetings. And no bad luck has come to them since the meetings were canceled because of wartime restrictions.

MASS. COURT JUDGES NEW BOOK OBSCENE

By The Associated Press

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., April 27 —The controversial novel "Strange Fruit," by Lillian Smith, was adjudged "obscene" by District Court Judge Arthur P. Stone yesterday, although he said it was "a story that might be told," and a Cambridge bookseller was fined $200 for possessing and selling it.

Abraham Isenstadt, Harvard Square bookseller who sold the book to Bernard A. De Voto, noted author and literary critic, by prearrangement with the police in an effort to test a local ban on the book, appealed and was held in $25 bail for superior court.

Asked if he had any comment on "Strange Fruit," Judge Stone said:

"I agree with you that this is a story that might be told. It is a tragic affair. It has been well drawn. Several of the characters have been well drawn. I can't say merely that because there is a word or two words in a book that the book is obscene.

"Scattered throughout this book are indecencies. I'm of the opinion these were lugged in. They don't tell the story. They make the book dirty. I believe it was done with a desire to sell the book. As a whole, I find the book obscene, tending to corrupt the morals of youth."

The court said there was no law against purchasing an obscene book, and dismissed charges against De Voto.

OFFICER CANDIDATE SCHOOLS TO CLOSE

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, April 27 — A further reduction in the number of officer candidate schools was announced today by Secretary of War Stimson as a result of diminishing army requirements for junior officers.

Of the original 26 schools in the United States, not more than 11 will be in operation by fall, said Stimson, while of the four schools established overseas, that in Australia is the only one now functioning.

The armored command OCS at Ft. Knox, Ky., will enroll its last class May 29, and will be closed when that class is graduated next Sept 23. Three other schools already have enrolled their last classes — the chemical warfare OCS, Edgewood Arsenal, Md., will close July 8; the military police OCS, Ft. Custer, Mich., June 27, and the antiaircraft artillery OCS, Camp Davis, N. C., June 15.

The peak of the officer training program was reached in December 1942, when 23,000 graduates received commissions. The number has dropped steadily to the present rate of fewer than 2,500 graduates a month from all schools.

The schools still accepting candidates are: engineer, Ft. Belvoir, Va.; field artillery, Ft. Sill, Okla.; finance, Durham, N. C.; infantry, Ft. Benning, Ga.; judge advocate general, Ann Arbor, Mich.; medical administration, Camp Barkeley, Tex.; ordnance, Aberdeen Proving Ground, Md.; quartermaster, Camp Lee, Va.; signal, Ft. Monmouth, N. J.; transportation, New Orleans, La.; and army air forces, San Antonio, Tex., the last-named supplanting the AAF-OCS at Miami, Fla.

LABOR BOARD

behalf of U. S. Gypsum Company (Warren, O.) last September, and subsequently in five others. The total court actions now pending against the board is 16. Avery's six cases include four Montgomery Ward actions covering six cities. His last defiance is the Hummer Manufacturing Co., a Montgomery Ward division which makes gun parts.

The government, through the department of justice, has resisted a court test for the same reasons the board opposed a provision for court review in the war labor disputes act. In the U. S. Gypsum case, the government's legal position is that the court has no jurisdiction or authority to enjoin the war labor board because its decisions are merely declarations of equities and are not enforced by the board itself. The government thus takes recourse in the virtual improbability that the courts will attempt to enjoin the President. In addition, the government argues that the legislative history of the war labor disputes act shows congress considered court review to the extent of writing it into the bill and then withdrawing it.

Intended to End Strikes

The theory behind creation of the war labor board is that it was intended to be a wartime substitute for strikes and lockouts. The government's position is that the board and the authority under which it operates is as temporary as the emergency, and that it has no permanent statute to police, like that of the national labor relations board. Test cases under the Wagner act averaged about 11 months. It is contended that if the WLB must submit to tests of that duration its effectiveness as an arbiter of emergency disputes would be nullified.

Uncle Sam's Toes Are Stepped On by Sweden Newspaper

By DEWITT MACKENZIE
Associated Press War Analyst

Our Uncle Sam, having expressed dissatisfaction with Sweden's rejection of the allied request to stop sending ball bearings—vital war material—to Germany, has had his coat-tails stepped on by the Stockholm Aftonbladet, one of Sweden's big newspapers.

Aftonbladet asserts that Britain merely supported the request and that Russia "was the last to say anything." The paper then voices surprise that the note "came from a nation which among the allies has done the least in the war"—and that means us.

Well, that's blunt language, but frankness can be employed between friendly peoples like the Swedes and Americans. Aftonbladet's appraisal invites two important questions: 1. What justification is there for the allied request? 2. By what standard do we measure the worth of war contribution?

Sweden's Position Difficult

First off, we can readily understand the difficulties of Sweden's position. Ever since the war started she has been sitting under Nazidom's big guns, in constant danger of attack. The bulk of her essential foreign imports come from Germany, and for this there has had to be a quid pro quo. Sweden is indeed lucky in being able to maintain neutrality and independence.

Having admitted this we come to the present allied viewpoint. The allies have recognized Sweden's troubles and up until now haven't made embarrassing requests. They conceded that she wasn't prepared to stand up against Hitler's military might without aid, and they couldn't give adequate help.

Now, however, the picture has changed. The fuehrer already is a beaten man. It only remains to be seen how long he can hang on by the skin of his teeth. We are about to enter the crucial final stretch of the conflict, and most experts agree with our Admiral Ernest J. King, commander in chief of the United States Navy, that victory over Germany is possible this year.

Allies' Attitude

At long last we are able to give Sweden ample aid if she is attacked by Germany. The same is true of other neutrals. On that basis the allies feel that those who don't line up with them are against them. They know that Sweden in her heart stands for the justice of the United Nations' cause. Therefore they ask her to stop rendering vital aid to the reich and prolonging the war as we plunge into Armegeddon.

And now for the claim that America has done the least among the big three. Do we measure the contribution in blood? If so we must admit that both Russia and the British empire have had far greater casualties than the United States, which hasn't been in the war so long.

Do we gauge it by the lease-lend program under which we already have sent $22,500,000,000 to our allies? Do we judge by Marshal Stalin's little toast during the Teheran conference that "without American production the United Nations could never have won the war?" Do we figure it on the basis of the titanic war machine we've created—a machine which among other things will give us a navy equal to that of all other nations by the end of the year—a machine which is about to swing into top gear with a vast expenditure in lives?

None of these things it strikes me, gives a correct measure. I think the only true gauge of war contribution is the will of a nation to give everything it has, in total cooperation with its allies, to achieve victory. If each ally does its best, then its contribution is the equal of those of the other partners—no greater, no less.

G. I. BILL

to critics of his committee's procedure.

Mrs. Rogers denied that Rankin is "holding up the bill" as some members of congress have implied.

"The committee now is trying to work out simplifications in the bill to cut down the administration costs," she said.

Major Bottleneck

Major bottleneck to committee progress, members reported, is a provision for up to 52 weeks of unemployment compensation over a two-year period for men and women veterans unable to find work after their discharge.

Rankin has expressed fear this might encourage veterans to remain idle.

Without mentioning names, Senator Clark had said resistance to the bill was "based entirely upon the hatred of certain congressmen for the colored portion of our armed forces," who would share the unemployment insurance benefits.

The Legion announcement said the organization is at an all-time high membership of 1,243,172 compared with 1,011,914 a year ago, and that "thousands of new enrollments" are coming in every week, "reflecting the fresh World war II blood infusion" into the membership.

National Commander Warren H. Atherton said the Legion not only is the largest World war I group but already the largest World war 2 group and in the future will number "millions of members."

Rev. Faulkner Speaks to Luncheon Group

At a luncheon meeting of a group of Marion business men at the Y.M.C.A. Wednesday Rev. R. W. Faulkner of Calvary Evangelical church spoke. His theme was the authority of Christ and he dealt with the "age-old question of man, 'who is the boss?' in all phases of life." He drew parallels of spiritual life and of business management, declaring that there is no success in business without a "boss," so in the whole of life there is need for a higher authority to look to for guidance. Raising the question of "Who was the final voice of authority in life, contemporary authors writing on religion, or the Bible, the Scriptures, the church, our inner light of conscience, our power of reasoning?" he emphasized that there are all "means of grace to the end that we might enter into a vital experience with Christ as our personal savior." He concluded with the thought that breakup of homes, of lives, of order in the world all hinge on the question of who is given final authority and if that one is Christ there shall be the victory of peace in the individual heart and in the world and the Bible prophecies concerning unending peace will be fulfilled.

HEAVY HOG SALES JAM STOCKYARDS

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, April 27—Packing companies reported their yards jammed with hogs today and predicted new stock runs as a result of OPA's announcement that ceiling prices on hogs over 240 pounds would be cut 75 cents a hundred pounds May 15.

The Columbus Packing Company declared a 24-hour embargo yesterday after some 9,000 hogs poured in to overtax its facilities, designed to accommodate about 6,500, but officials said a limited number of animals would be purchased today.

The Producers Livestock Cooperative association said some hogs received Monday still were on hand and that no purchases were being made temporarily.

Buyer F. C. Ogg of the cooperative expressed belief the Columbus situation was similar to that throughout the state and attributed the jam largely to recent reductions in government pork buying. He also predicted that farmers with heavy hogs would attempt to market them before the May 15 ceiling drop.

Ogg explained that small packers, such as those here, sold most of their pork to large packers, who in turn supplied government needs.

BALLOT

hours 6:30 a. m. to 9 p. m., for the convenience of war plant workers. Lieut Gov. Paul M. Herbert held the measure was not germane to the governor's call.

The house Democratic minority thereupon decided to offer resolutions asking the governor to extend his call to embrace the voting hours and more funds for the cities and counties.

Republican members of the house and senate are in the majority and thus able to override Democratic proposals if they wish.

Legislation, introduced last night and referred immediately to the election committees of both houses, would enable electors in the armed forces to vote for every type of candidate from township trustee to president of the United States. They also could ballot on local option proposals to prohibit the sale of beer or liquor.

The governor recommended this all-inclusive plan of voting in contract to the federal ballot advanced by congress, which would permit the soldiers and sailors to vote only for president, U. S. senator and congressmen.

Favors Full Ballot

The complete ballot, the governor told the legislature, makes possible greater participation in representative government.

"The foundation of our American system," he said, "is not the federal government — necessary and important though it be. The foundation of our American system is state and local government."

Bricker added that "it is just as important that our young men and women in the various services vote the state ballot in wartime as in peacetime. In some respects it is even more important."

The administration's bill is applicable only to the Nov. 7 general election, and its essential feature is the extending from 30 days to 90 days the time in which members of the armed forces can apply for a ballot, mark their preference for candidates and return the ballot to county election boards.

Such ballots received by the boards before noon election day shall be counted. The present law requires absentee ballots to be in four days before election.

The proposed legislation, phrased to apply to electors "in and with the armed forces and merchant marine," thereby embraces members of organizations such as the Red Cross, United Service organizations, Society of Friends and Women's Auxiliary Service Pilots who are in contact with the armed services.

Ohioans in the armed services of allied nations also would be covered by the bill.

Method of Application

Close relatives of absentee soldiers and sailors would be permitted to apply for a ballot in their behalf. Democrats introduced bills to authorize any interested person to apply for a ballot in behalf of a soldier.

The administration measure was expanded to include local option elections at the insistence of legislators who recalled how national prohibition was adopted in 1918 while millions of American men were abroad and unable to vote.

The bill, besides extending from 30 days to 90 the period in which absentees can vote on local option issues, also specifies that such questions may be put to vote on only one day this year—Nov. 7.

Rep. William F. Eirick (R-Cuyahoga) offered a measure proposing that the presidential and state tickets be listed on one ballot. They were separated four years ago at Bricker's request. Eirick's proposal was not mentioned in the governor's call for the special session.

WOLF PACKS

Four girls, 15 to 17, have been turned over to juvenile authorities, he added.

Three persons were charged in connection with the case yesterday in the court of Justice of the Peace J. E. McFarland.

Fifteen youths were named in complaints and will be questioned by deputy prosecutors.

Renton Police Chief Vincent Stewart said five former convicts had been found among tenants of the two housing projects where the 100 young persons were evicted. He said he had moved for revocation of their paroles.

"These 'party' boys and girls, ranging from 16 to 21 years," Stewart said "were imported by the government to work in our war plants. Many of them lived in Cedar Park (one of the housing projects) without parents or proper supervision.

"Theoretically they were segregated, but they connived to get together."

"Apparently this so-called wolf gang could get all the beer, wine and whisky they wanted," Captain Best said. "We have signed statements in which they name the various places in which they bought drinks.

"Cab drivers, we are informed, were bootlegging liquor to them for $7 a pint and $14 a quart. These kids were all working and had plenty of money."

Troops Eject Ward President

fused to accept legality of the seizure proceedings.

It was apparent the government expected some court action by the company when George Keily, assistant U. S. district attorney, disclosed that he and four other assistants had been deputized by Biddle to take up watch in five Chicago courts.

An assistant prosecutor was stationed in each of the state courts, superior, circuit, municipal and county, and in federal district court from 9:15 a. m. on, presumably to be there to represent the government should Montgomery Ward counsel initiate injunction or other proceedings.

The attorney general, Taylor and Ugo Carusi, executive assistant to Biddle, arrived at the Montgomery Ward plant about 7:45 a. m.

Soldiers with bayonetted rifles patrolled the administration building offices and the entrance to the retail store, shooing out reporters, although a company spokesman said press quarters would be made available later. Maj. J. R. Weber of the sixth service command was in charge of the detail of some 35 soldiers, a token force which Taylor said yesterday simply emphasized the fact that the United States government had taken charge.

Business to Proceed

Taylor also declared business would proceed as usual, except that Avery's voice no longer would be recognized. Only the Chicago properties were involved.

The dispatching of a detachment of troops to the plant late yesterday climaxed the government's third effort during the day to successfully carry out President Roosevelt's directive, issued when the company failed to comply with his and a war labor board order to extend an expired contract with a CIO union.

Twice during the day officials of the department of commerce and the attorney general's office took steps to take possession of the plant but, on both occasions, they failed when Sewell L. Avery, company board chairman, refused to recognize their authority, contending the seizure was illegal. He had advised Mr. Roosevelt in a telegram that the company was not engaged in war work and seizure by any federal official would be unconstitutional.

Avery Maintains Stand

Avery, confronted by government officials and the head of the troops, reiterated his contention that the proceedings were without legal authority. However, he left after being advised by the officials that the place was in possession of the U. S. government.

Biddle said federal officials were interfering as little as possible with normal functions of the firm and added:

"As a matter of fact we are the people being interfered with."

He asserted John A. Barr and Stuart Ball, company attorneys who were present when Avery was ejected, had declined to cooperate, and that Harold L. Pearson, vice president and treasurer, refused to turn over the firm's books.

A reporter told Biddle that Avery had stated the proceedings were a "bluff" by the government.

"We've called his bluff," the attorney general commented.

Repercussions of the melodramatic maneuvers at the nerve center of the huge mercantile business embracing nine mail order plants and 640 retail stores were evidenced elsewhere.

To Ask House Probe

In Washington, Rep. Dewey (R-Ill) announced he would offer a resolution in the house for an investigation by a special committee of "this highhanded and un-American procedure, which savors strongly of gestapo methods."

Montgomery Ward stock advanced a bit early in the day. Stockholders were scheduled to meet tomorrow, a Ward spokesman said Avery was scheduled to preside.

Biddle, Taylor and Ugo Carusi, executive assistant to Biddle, arrived at the firm's headquarters at 7:45 a. m. and went to Avery's office.

Taylor distributed a statement to officials of the firm which made the following points:

The government is in possession of the concern's Chicago units. Taylor is the operating manager for the government. All employes are to perform their usual duties, and to comply with President Roosevelt's order. The American flag is to be flown on each building. Books are to be set up for the period of federal control.

Wayne C. Taylor, undersecretary of commerce who was named agent to assume control of the Ward properties, said he had advised Avery, in his third and final attempt to gain possession, that business would proceed as usual at the plant, which employs approximately 9,000 of which 5,500 are claimed by the CIO union which was involved in the dispute.

A company spokesman, who asked to remain anonymous, later said the management did not recognize the legality of the seizure.

"Mr. Avery just went home at the end of his business day, the spokesmen said in commenting on the chief executive officer leaving the plant after arrival of the troops. "It does not mean he recognizes the government is now in possesison of the company's properties."

Ward Board To Meet

A meeting of the board of directors is scheduled for tomorrow but it was not announced whether it will be held. Likewise there was no comment by company officials as to whether the battle would be carried to the courts.

In Washington, Attorney General Biddle said in an opinion prepared for President Roosevelt that the President based his right to seize the plant on the powers and authority granted the President under the constitution and laws of the country. The government, in several labor cases between company and union, has taken over war plants when settlement failed.

Avery's initial refusal to obey the President's order came when Taylor and Ugo Carusi, executive assistant to Attorney General Biddle, presented to him the Chief Executive's order.

After conferring by telephone with Secretary Jones, they returned later, with Federal Marshal William McDonnell and 11 deputies. But again the 69-year-old Avery, head of the vast merchandising establishment since 1931, challenged their authority.

Instructed not to use force to take possession, the federal officials took another method of fulfilling their orders and troops were called in from nearby Camp Skokie Valley at the direction of Brig. Gen. John J. Davis of the Sixth service command.

No Incidents

There was no untoward incident at the plant upon arrival of the troops, numbering about 35. A few boos and some cheers came from a crowd of 1,500 assembled in the street.

Avery's labor disputes with the President and the CIO extends over a two-year period and the current controversy follows a 12-day division. At the request of President Roosevelt, Avery in December, 1942, signed the original contract with the union, the United Mail Order, Warehouse and Retail employes.

At expiration last Dec. 8, the management contended the CIO no longer represented a majority of the 5,500 employes. The WLB's order that the company continue the contract pending an election was rejected and last April 12 the CIO unionists went out on strike. However, they returned Tuesday, acceding to President Roosevelt's request.

Henry B. Anderson, president of local 20 of the CIO union, said in a statement last night that "our union considers the action of President Roosevelt a decisive defeat for those reactionary industrialists who had hopes of using the war emergency as a means of destroying those governmental agencies set up to main and preserve order by Democratic processes. * * *

"Now that a new management is at the head of Montgomery Ward, our membership extends to it our offer of full cooperation so that industrial peace may prevail and all of us can get on with the job of defeating the axis enemies abroad."

ASSEMBLY PAYS TRIBUTE TO OHIO PILOT ACE

Resolutions Praise Air Exploits of Captain Gentile.

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., April 27—The state paid official tribute last night to America's ace of aces, Capt. Don Gentile of Piqua, O., who leads all U. S. fighter pilots with 30 kills to his credit in the European theater.

Both the house and the senate, in special session to consider soldier voting legislation, passed resolutions expressing the state's pride in Gentile's exploits, and both said his record was "a symbol of vindication of the worth of our way of living."

Rep. Guy Hawley (R-Darke) sponsored the house resolution and invited Captain Gentile to address the assembly during its special session. Sen. Theodore M. Gray of Piqua sponsored the senate resolution.

EPWORTH TRUSTEES, STEWARDS ELECTED

Fourth Quarterly Conference Held by Church.

The fourth quarterly conference of Epworth Methodist church was held Tuesday night at the church with an attendance of 100. Preceding business for which Dr. R. O. McClure, superintendent of the Lima district presided, a chicken dinner was served in the church dining room by members of the W.S.C.S.

Reports were given by the pastor, Dr. S. M. Ingmire; John Clark, church treasurer; Mrs. W. E. Miley, president of the W.S.C.S.; Mrs. Dale Lawrence, good literature committee; H. L. Dowler, Sunday school superintendent; C. H. Mrs. Gail Henshaw Hughes, a recruiter specialist third class, has arrived in Marion to take the place, temporarily of Miss Glenola McClure, also a recruiter specialist third class, who had come here early this week to spend several days interviewing women interested in enlisting in the WAVES.

Miss McClure was called home suddenly because of a death in her family.

Mrs. Hughes is a former radio actress from Chicago whose voice was that of a number of radio characters including "Kitty Keene." Her husband is a corporal in the army and is now in England.

She will make her headquarters at the Marion Navy Recruiting station at 195 South Main street the remainder of this week.

SOAP SMOKE KITS

By The Associated Press

CAPE GLOUCESTER, New Britain—Marines in the south Pacific jungles have solved the problem of keeping cigarets dry by using ordinary two-part soap trays. A soap tray is large enough to accommodate matches, a pack of cigarets and a snapshot of the girl friend.

Variety in Wartime Meals

FISH CAKES with Jiffy mustard chili sauce.

By CHARLOTTE ADAMS
Associated Press Food Editor

Wartime shortages and rationing force us to eat the same foods more often than we did in times of plenty. The same foods over and over can get awfully tiresome—if they're always cooked and served the same way. But the secret of defeating that monotony is to learn to make a variety of sauces. We Americans have never been great ones for sauces. We've always had such a tremendous variety of foods of the very best quality that we didn't have to bother with such "fancy" touches. The invention of sauces abroad undoubtedly arose out of the need to disguise poor food. We're close to that necessity now. Let's make our own inventions.

Jiffy Mustard Chili Sauce

1 cup canned or fresh tomatoes, 2 tablespoons minced onion, 2 tablespoons minced green pepper, ½ teaspoon salt, ⅛ teaspoon ginger, ¼ teaspoon cloves, ⅛ teaspoon allspice, ¼ cup vinegar, 1½ tablespoons sugar, 2 teaspoons prepared mustard with horseradish.

Chop tomatoes. Add onion, green pepper, seasonings, vinegar and sugar. Cook over low heat until thick, stirring occasionally to prevent burning. Add prepared mustard and mix well. Yield: approximately a half pint.

This chili sauce is particularly good for dressing up fish cakes, as illustrated. It makes a happy change from the more usual tomato sauce.

Here's a good sauce to add interest to a vegetable plate. It's especially tasty poured over broccoli.

Sweet-Sour Sauce

4 tablespoons real mayonnaise, 1 tablespoon flour, 1 cup stock, ⅛ teaspoon paprika, ½ tablespoon vinegar, 1 tablespoon sugar.

Mix mayonnaise and flour. Add stock gradually. Cook, stirring constantly until thickened. Add paprika, vinegar, sugar and mix well. Yield: 1¼ cups.

Next comes a sauce which lends flavor to the dullest of cold meats and is also wonderful over cauliflower or asparagus.

Vinaigrette Sauce

6 tablespoons vitaminized margarine, 2 teaspoons salt, ½ teaspoon paprika, ⅛ teaspoon pepper, 2 tablespoons tarragon vinegar, 4 tablespoons wine vinegar, 2 tablespoons chopped green pepper, 2 tablespoons chopped bread and butter pickles or cucumber, 2 teaspoons chopped parsley, 2 teaspoons chopped chives.

Melt margarine and combine with seasonings and vinegars. Add green pepper, pickles, parsley, and chives and mix well. Yield: approximately one cup.

Real mayonnaise is a great addition to many hot sauces. Even if you just stir it into a plain cream sauce, great changes take place. The other greatest type of sauce, in my opinion, is one made with egg yolks as the base. The most famous of all these is Hollandaise and a great deal of nonsence has been built up about how hard it is to make. Please believe me that if you pay exact attention to what you are doing and follow the recipe exactly you cannot go wrong. Sometimes the sauce will come out a little thicker or a little thinner than usual. That is because of differences in egg sizes. If the time ever comes when we can buy eggs by the pound we'll be able to be more accurate about our Hollandaise. We can do pretty well right now, this way:

Hollandaise Sauce

¾ cup vitaminized margarine, 1½ tablespoons lemon juice or wine vinegar, 3 egg yolks, ¼ teaspoon salt, few grains cayenne.

Divide margarine into three equal pieces. Place lemon juice or vinegar, egg yolks and one piece of butter in the top of a double boiler. The water in the bottom should be hot, but never boiling. Heat constantly with a wire whisk or a fork until all the margarine is absorbed, add the second piece, and when it is absorbed add the third. Never stop beating for one second. The minute the third piece is absorbed remove from stove and add seasonings. This sauce may be left standing in a warm place, but it should not be left over heat or hot water. That makes it separate.

Guard Co. Auxiliary Plans Entertainment

Plans for future entertainment of Co. M, Ohio State Guard, and women of the auxiliary were begun at a meeting of the auxiliary on Tuesday night at the Armory clubrooms.

Wives and mothers of men in the company are eligible for membership. Mrs. Frances Grant was appointed chairman of the group and Mrs. Grace Ebert, wife of Captain Carl Ebert of Co. M, was appointed an honorary member.

Election of officers was postponed until the next meeting which will be on Tuesday, April 2, in the clubrooms. A constitution will be drawn up and presented within the next few weeks. A potluck dinner followed the meeting.

CLASS GIVES PROGRAM

Westminster Bible class of First Presbyterian church met Tuesday in the recreational room of the church for a 1 o'clock lunch. Mrs. O. E. Williams' group served. Mrs. F. F. Williams conducted the business meeting and Mrs. J. W. Hungate led devotions, theme of which was taken from the 161st Psalm. A letter from Rev. Hugh Reid, missionary from Carthage, Mo., was read by Mrs. G. W. Bechtle. The class pledged $60 for six building blocks. Mrs. Carey Ryder, a former member, was reported to be in Grant hospital, Columbus, seriously ill. A reading entitled "Mother" was given by Mrs. Marshall McKinstry, followed by the class history. A poem, "Dad," concluded her program. Next meeting will be June 6 with Mrs. F. F. Williams of Blaine avenue. Guests were Miss Madeline Wynn, Miss Floretta Allmendinger, Mrs. G. W. Bowers, Mrs. Charles Wilhelm and Mrs. George Ties.

FIGHTS EPIDEMIC

By The Associated Press

PHOENIX, Ariz.—An outbreak of rabies described as the worst in the history of the state has forced Arizona to resort to mass execution of wandering animals to stamp out the dread disease. More than 2,500 stray dogs were slain in recent months at Tucson, where the epidemic was aggravated by the infected coyotes roaming the desert. The disease, transmitted by the bites of infected animals, has taken one human life and scores of others persons have received the Pasteur treatment.

California has more than 3,500 acres planted with dates.

ABOUT ANYTHING

In and Around Marion

Speeding

One of those friendly arguments that pop up frequently centered around the 35-mile-an-nour speed limit which motorists have been asked to observe as "victory speed limit." The question was whether a motorist was subject to penalty if he went above that speed.

Corporal Davey of the Marion state highway patrol substation was called to settle the matter and this, in substance, is what he said:

The highway speed limit in Ohio is 50 miles an hour, and a person can't be arrested and taken into court for speeding if he drives 50 or under while on the highway (if he drives too fast under nazardous conditions, even under 50 miles an hour, he can be arrested for reckless driving—like driving 45 miles an hour in a heavy fog).

However, and this is where the catch comes in, a motorist can be tagged and reported to his ration board if he is caught driving more than 35 miles an hour. The ration board hears the case somewhat like a court functions, and can deprive the motorist of part of his rations, or even all of them for any length of time it chooses. This, Corporal Davey commented, is for most persons a heavier penalty than a fine would be.

So, it adds up like this: It isn't against the "law" to drive over 35, but any motorist caught driving over the victory speed faces the loss of part or all of his gasoline rations.

When a Ride Counts

A star in some good driver's crown for what he did on a recent Suday morning. About church time he ran across some poor soul nearly drowned in the sudden downpour and, although they were both perfect strangers, offered the person a ride to his destination. This was a voluntary and much appreciated share the ride plan.

Youthful Critics

The Marion mechanical geniuses were overheard in discussion while passing down the street the other day. You couldn't catch all their conversation, but one of them said on the subject of airplanes, "You know, in some ways I don't like the Spitfire."

Do you suppose that these two will design a new plane? Let's wait a few years. At the time of the conversation they were riding their bikes home from school.

Street Dancing

No doubt you've heard of people staging a celebration and dancing in the streets. Well, the other day the Marion girls going home from work staged their own celebration. They were doing a beautiful job of trying to work out a new step. As much as could be heard of their tune faintly resembled a conga. The steps through which they were tripping ought to be shown to Arthur Murray.

Good Place To Live

Hearing Gilderaleeve sing "The Moon Belongs to Everyone—The Best Things in Life Are Free" the other night started one of those rambling trains of thought about the natural beauties of Marion county that most of us probably take for granted, although we're subconsciously aware of them and, to some extent, appreciate them.

Marion county spots have on several occasions been chosen by painters for canvasses on peaceful rural scenes.

Although the county is as flat as a tabletop, it is pleasantly marked by rivers and streams, which always make for scenic nooks. Even though these rivers and streams occasionally go on the rampage, they are certainly assets to the county in many ways. The scenery along the Scioto near Prospect is as pretty as some of the spots tourists go (used to go) many miles to see.

Scenes along the Whetstone south of Caledonia are worthy of any post-war Sunday afternoon drive, and for "duration" scenery a stroll through Indian Mound is a very satisfactory substitute.

Marion county's farms are a pleasant sight at any time, especially when compared with those in some other parts of the state and nation. The more scenic hill country might be more pleasant to the eye, but the farmers in those territories have a tough time making the land produce like the bottom lands of Marion county.

If there are any disadvantages to Marion county as a place to live, they are certainly mild ones compared with conditions found elsewhere. For example, the climate here has often been heckled as a place where sinus ailments are aggravated, yet one construction worker who came here from Pittsburgh to help build the Scioto Ordnance Plant spoke lavish words of praise for the Marion climate. He said he had suffered severely from sinus trouble in Pittsburgh and got almost immediate relief when he came to Marion.

Traveling men have kind words for this part of the state, too, often commenting that when their business days draw to a close they'd like to settle down on a little patch of land somewhere in the county.

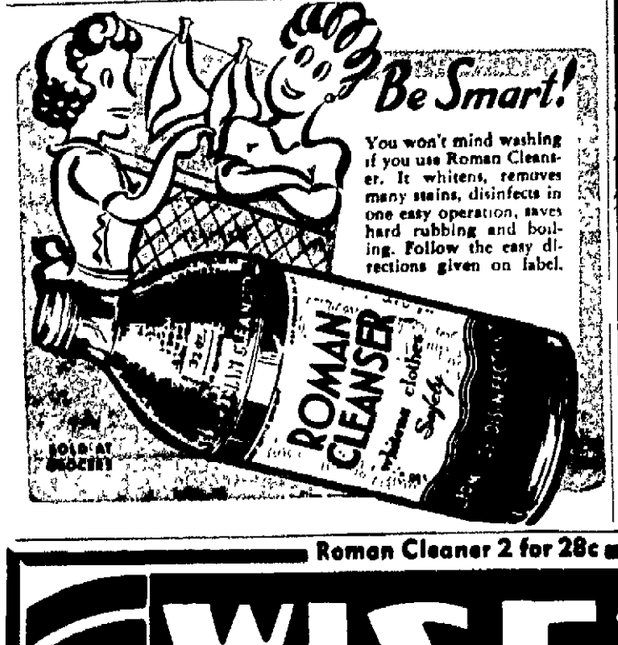
Could Use More Hands

In church recently, heads turned toward a certain seat and smiles could be seen on most faces. Pretty soon there was a tiny fist waving above the back of the pew. A very young couple had brought their small offspring and throughout the service, not a whimper was heard from the angelic infant. It brought to mind the bemoanings of a young mother not long ago who complained because she couldn't sprout two more hands. She said both are needed to hold the blanketed child and where are you going to store your purse and the necessary handbag that must go with every little one. Extra worries pop up when you board a bus and must juggle things around in order to deposit the ticket.



Be Smart!

15 Players Due To Join Team Today

By CHARLES ELLIOTT

After a five-day layoff from diamond activity, during which they were forced by an uncooperative weatherman to limit physical exertion to workouts in the Y. M. C. A., the Marion club baseballers resumed practicing on a major scale at Lincoln park yesterday in preparation for the Ohio State league lidlifter with Lima here next Tuesday.

Upwards of a dozen team candidates limbered up in yesterday's drills, which in the main, consisted of fielding, batting and base running under the keen, experienced eyes of Manager Grover Hartley.

Some 15 additional players were expected to be on hand for today's practice at Lincoln park. These newcomers were scheduled to arrive in the city yesterday afternoon but for some reason were delayed. This contingent of horsehiders come "from the east," having been released to the Marion team by the Philadelphia Phillies of the National league, of which Herb Pennock, former pitching ace for the Boston Red Sox and New York Yanks, is the farm system director.

Among the hopefuls displaying their diamond aptitude yesterday were the following:

Bob Ballinger, 17 years old, of 839 Uncapher avenue in Marion. He is trying out for first base and bats and throws left handed.

Robert Boddy, 17, of Toledo, a right-handed hitter and thrower. He is a shortstop and comes highly recommended by prominent baseball men.

Carl Woodruff, 18, of Columbus. He throws and bats from the right side and is described as the "diminutive, aggressive, persevering type."

Irving Burkwitt of Chicago and Paul Micah of St. Louis. These two boys were sent to Hartley from the Jamestown club of the Pony league. Harry Bisgere is president of the Jamestown team.

Joe Manning, Columbus outfielder. He's 21 and 4-F in the draft.

Pitcher from Ashley

George Bulhanan, 19, of Ashley, a right-handed pitcher. He probably is the tallest man on the team with his 6 feet 4 inches. He weighs 175.

William Merriman, first baseman of Columbus. He's a lefty, both at the plate and when cavorting around first. He's a six-footer.

Bill Heckelsmith, 22, of Quincy, Ill. He was farmed out to Marion by the Minneapolis Millers of the American association. He is a catcher and bats and throws right-handed. Married and has two children.

Jack Woods, 19-year-old shortstop from Columbus. Judge W. Dexter Haven, Marion club president, calls this boy a "sweet player" with plenty of potentialities.

There you have the material with which Manager Hartley has been working in early practices. He is non-committal when it comes to classifying the boys according to ability because he simply hasn't had enough of an opportunity to see them perform under pressure. No intra-squad games have as yet been played.

Bob Feller Says Boys Will Be Back for 1945 Season

By The Associated Press

CHICAGO, April 27—"Will be back with you before the 1945 season gets far under way."

That's what Bob Feller, the Cleveland Indians' wonder boy pre-war pitcher and now a chief specialist in the Navy, says in a letter to Lew Fonseca, American league motion picture director.

Feller, who entered the Navy four days after Pearl Harbor, isn't finding much time for baseball, he told Fonseca, but he pitched his Navy team to a fleet baseball pennant last Christmas.

"Operations are beyond the scene of athletic activity now," wrote the 25-year-old Van Meter, Ia., pitcher who won 107 games for Cleveland from late in 1936 until the close of the '41 campaign. He is serving in an anti-aircraft gun unit aboard one of Uncle Sam's battleships.

Bullet Bob, the letter indicated, is anxious to return and get back into the baseball campaign when his present job is over. "It's quite difficult to remain in condition, as continuous operations keep us on our toes and sleep is about all we have time for now, but we have played many exhibition games around the globe."

Feller, who wants to borrow the American league's 1943 baseball movie for his service buddies, told Fonseca "it will be shown on board ship to 75 or 100,000 young men" who would "nearly eat it up." He stressed the fact that no other entertainment is available —"not even a shore to walk around on while in port."

Walters Finally Wins Game in Daylight

By The Associated Press

CINCINNATI, April 27—Bucky Walters is off the night shift at last.

The big Cincinnati pitcher abandoned his owl-like tendencies in winning a 1 to 0 verdict over the St. Louis Cardinals in 13 innings yesterday. It was his first victory of the 1944 season but, perhaps more important, it was his first win in daylight at Crosley field since late in the 1942 campaign. Concentrating on night home-work last season, Bucky won eight of nine stars under the Crosley field lights.

One loose ball, released by Alvin Jurisich of the Cards, spelled sweet victory to Walters. The loose one wandered into the neighborhood of Frank McCormick at the tail end of the thirteenth inning, and McCormick promptly slammed it over the fence.

Until then the teams had put in a lot of time for nothing, though the Reds muffed four scoring opportunities, and the Cards slipped up in the twelfth when Kenny O'Dea singled to open the inning, then was left stranded.

BUCKS BEAT BOBCATS

By The Associated Press

ATHENS, O., April 27 — Ohio State staged a four-run rally in the eighth inning to defeat Ohio university 5 to 2 yesterday. The Bobcats scored two in the second. Ohio State added its final run in the ninth. The Bucks outhit the Bobcats 8 to 5.

NOTES FROM THE CLUBHOUSE

WITH AP SPORTS WRITERS

(The following story was written by Sgt. Bill Allen, of Woodstock, Va., a Marine Corps combat correspondent.)

SOMEWHERE IN THE SOUTH PACIFIC—A story by Chip Royal, Associated Press Features sports editor, naming Bobby Jones, Babe Ruth and Jesse Owens as the three greatest athletes of all time gave the Marines here food for thought. It was only natural that a long discussion developed.

There were Leatherknecks who agreed with Royal's selection, but there were some who had ideas of their own. The battle of words raged far into the night until Marine Cpl. Stanley L. Zarzika of Welshfield, O., finally went to work with his pad and pencil.

This Marine Gallup interviewed countless Marines for three days, and spent an additional day to tally his findings.

The one-two-three result of the Zarzika poll was:

1—Jim Thorpe of football, track and baseball fame.

2—James J. Braddock for his story-book rise to the world heavyweight boxing championship.

3—Johny Van der Meer who pitched two consecutive no-hit games.

Cpl. Zarzika says he found no one who denied Jones, Ruth and Owens a high rating on the scroll of all-time greats.

However, when the Marine poll result was placed on the bulletin board alongside the Chip Royal summary, it was found that the top man (Jones) on the Royal list, was in fourth position on the Marines' list; Thorpe, who got the number-one vote among the Marines was sixth on the AP Features list, Braddock was not on the AP list and Van der Meer was seventh.

To support their selection, the Marines talked of how Braddock rose from a relief line to the heavyweight championship, in little more than one year. Van der Meer's two consecutive no-hit-no-run games is the most important entry in the baseball archives.

JIM THORPE

according to the Marines.

Among other Marine favorites are Henry Armstrong, only man to hold three boxing titles at the same time, and Jack Dempsey. These two fighters ranked fifth and sixth in the Marine poll.

Others were: seventh, James J. Corbett; eight, Babe Ruth; ninth, Sammy Baugh, and tenth, Bill Tilden.

Connie Mack and the late Knute Rockne tied as the men who have done most for sports.

The vote for the best exhibition of sportsmanship went to Joe Louis, who refused to hit Billy Conn, when the latter slipped in the eleventh round. Louis was losing on points at the time.

Sports are still the American fighting man's favorite topic, and they enjoy discussing opinions voiced by noted sports authorities. When they do not agree with the experts, they say so. It's all in fun, and the boys here realize their poll is just another small voice in the melting pot of sport opinions.

CLEVELAND INDIANS FAIL TO GET INTO SPRING FLAG RACE

Usual Early Season Spurt Lacking; May Be Good Sign for Tribe.

By The Associated Press

ST. LOUIS, April 27—From all indications the Cleveland Indians won't win the spring pennant this year—and it may be a good sign.

In past seasons the Tribe has broken from the barrier to outdistance the field and then faltered miserably in the stretch. Today the club is in last place with a record of only one triumph in six engagements.

The rampaging St. Louis Browns, who lead the American league with seven wins in as many starts, handed the Indians their latest loss yesterday by a 5 to 2 count. The victory tied the junior circuit mark established by the New York Yankees back in 1933, they they won the first seven games of the season.

Allie Reynolds, who has twirled Cleveland's only win of the season, was the Browns' victim. Reynolds allowed only five hits in the six innings he pitched, but four of them were bunched with a base on balls in the sixth to produce four of the St. Louis runs. The other tally was made off Hal Kleine in the seventh.

The Indians touched Steve Sundra for 10 hits, but were able to group them effectively only in the eighth, when three singles and a double produced both their runs.

Manager Lou Boudreau kept his batting average above .400 by swatting Sundra for a single in the eighth. Charlie (Red) Embree will make his first appearance in organized baseball since 1942 when he starts for the Tribe in the series finale today. Nelson Potter is his opponent.

All six men are well known throughout the wrestling world and plenty of fun can be expected when the six are turned loose against each other.

Precedent Says Browns Sho... Finish No Better Than Seco...

By The Associated Press

At the rate those unbeaten St. Louis Browns are going they're likely to finish second in the American league. Nobody's out in front of them or even close behind, but old man precedent says they can't win the pennant.

When the Brownies stopped Cleveland, 5-2, yesterday they tied the Yankees' 1933 league record for the most consecutive games won at the start of a season, with seven. However, the New Yorkers of that happy April 11 years ago wound up seven games behind Washington in October.

Nine is the modern high mark in the National but the co-holders, the New York Giants of 1918 and the Brooklyn Dodgers of 1940, were only second place also-rans to the Chicago Cubs and Cincinnati Reds respectively.

These figures probably weren't worrying Luke Sewell a bit after Steve Sundra's second victory. Though touched for 10 hits, Sundra pitched shutout ball until after the Brown's four-run sixth inning uprising, marked by Don Gutteridge's triple and Vernon Stephens' two-run double.

Hank Borowy also joined the ranks of two-time winners as the Yankees squared the series with Philadelphia, 6-2. STIR UP BOOSTS DERBY DAY STOCK

By The Associated Press

LOUISVILLE, Ky., April 27—Stir Up, the winter book favorite of Greentree stables, again may find Skytracer, whom he had a hard time beating in Florida, a formidable rival in the May 6 Kentucky derby.

Skytracer sent his stock soaring yesterday with a three-length victory over Challenge Me, Arkansas derby winner, in the $10,0000 added Blue Grass stakes at Churchill Downs.

Eight derby eligibles ran in the Blue Grass stakes, but only the first four—Skytracer, Challenge Me, Alorter and Shut Up—are expected to show up at the derby starting gate.

The probable starters after yesterday's feature at the Downs, and approximate odds, are:

Stir Up, 8 to 5; Challenge Me, 5 to 1; Pensive, 5 to 1; Pukka Gin, 8 to 1; Skytracer, 10 to 1; Lucky Draw, 10 to 1; Stymie, 12 to 1; Twilight, 15 to 1; Bell Buzzer, 15 to 1; Autocrat, 20 to 1; Alorter, 20 to 1; Gramps Image, 20 to 1; Director J. E, 20 to 1; Shut Up, 25 to 1; Broad Grin, 25 to 1; Gay Bit, 25 to 1; Broadcloth, 30 to 1; Valley Flares, 30 to 1; American Eagle, 50 to 1, and Kope Kona, 50 to 1.

PLAYERS

but it is certain that some will be staged before Tuesday's league opener.

Any other Marion or vicinity boys who are entertaining the idea of trying out for the Marion team still may, but they will have to hustle. Manager Hartley has said he would be more than glad to have some local boys try out and the way things stack up now, they probably would stand a good chance of making the team. Hartley's hard up for players and he isn't trying to conceal that fact. Tuesday night, at the league meeting in Columbus, he made it clear to loop managers and executives that his team is at a disadvantage in not having sufficient talent.

Unless the war production board gives a speedy answer in the affirmative to the Marion club's application for a priority on a transformer to be used in the Lincoln park lighting system, Tuesday's inaugural with Lima will be a twilight affair. Unless the priority is granted within the next two days, the Tuesday game will start at 6:15 instead of 8:15, as it would if the lamps were installed.

More Tickets Out

Additional tickets for the opener were distributed yesterday by four Harding High school boys, Robert Blake, Marshall Browne, Robert Virden and Robert Obenour, who have been assisting with publicizing the game for several days. They have placed booster cards telling the important facts about the opener in public places around the city and from all reports, these efforts have borne positive results.

A total of 675 tickets were distributed Tuesday by the four boys and these are being gobbled up by a baseball-hungry Marion at a rapid rate. A capacity crowd seems to be certain.

Club President Hazen is definitely impressed by the enthusiasm which Marionites have been manifesting in regard to the team. The judge said, "It's surprising how much interest there is in baseball here. The public wants something that is a relief at a time like this."

Not only in Marion, but in the other five Ohio State league cities as well, spectator interest is at a high pitch. Sell-out crowds probably will attend all league openers.

While the price for all tickets for the opening game is $1, a standard price has been fixed by the club board of directors for ducats to be sold at regular season contests. All grandstand or reserved seats will cost 50 cents during the season and bleacher or general admission tickets will be 35 cents each. Some local firm or establishment will be asked by the club in the next few days to act as official advance ticket sale agent for the 1944 season. Tickets, of course, will be sold at Lincoln park in a special ticket booth, which probably will be erected before Tuesday.

Plans for the opening tilt are rapidly taking form. It's going to be the real McCoy, if present plans materialize. If everything works out, Mayor Harry Dowler will pitch the opening ball. A catcher, who probably will be another city or county official or some other prominent citizen, will be named shortly to receive the mayor's fast ball. The Harding High school Red and Black band may be on hand for the initial game.

Frank M. Colley of Columbus, elected acting Ohio State league president at Tuesday's meeting, has notified Manager Hartley he will be here Tuesday for the opener. Colley is taking over the duties of the president inasmuch as Joe Donnelly, chosen president earlier and the number one league promoter and organizer, will have to devote all his attention to being proxy of the Lima club.

Ever House an Elephant?

GRAVE DIGGER. Dr. F. M. Stanger of San Mateo Junior college carefully exhumes elephant bone believed 100,000 years old. Relic is protected with plaster cast.

By The Associated Press

SAN MATEO, Calif.—San Mateo Junior college is surprised but not displeased to find itself the recipient of prehistoric elephant bones from the recently-discovered Millbrae pits, believed more than 100,000 years old. Until the prehistoric windfall, the college housed its museum comfortably in one small classroom.

Today, with huge bones arriving virtually every hour, the college (normal enrollment 1,000) is afflicted with museum elephantiasis of epidemic proportions. The only cure, faculty members say, is a post-war program for a full-sized museum building.

Workmen, slashing down a hill to make room for a new housing project in the Millbrae Highlands ran their bulldozers over a white, soapy-like substance, later identified as an elephant (or mammoth) tusk. Dr. F. M. Stanger of the college history department, satisfied of the discovery, immediately began excavation. He is aided by F. D. Klyver of the biology department. Tusks enough to account for four elephants have been found.

The hog, at present 100 by 250 feet may prove to be much larger. It has been fenced off, a muddy oasis in the center of the booming housing project.

RYE STAGES RALLY AS TRADING CLOSES

By The Associated Press
CHICAGO, April 27 — Rye staged a rally toward the close on the grain market today, advancing above the preceding session's finish on buying which was believed to be mainly short covering upon the part of professional traders. Grain men were impressed during the early part of the session with the strength of May rye, which did not reflect the decline in other contract.
Although wheat and oats differed from their early lows in sympathy with the firmness displayed by rye, these grains were not able to go above yesterday's close. Selling during the first few hours was based upon improved weather conditions, expected to give farmers a chance to complete spring farm work, and expanded hog marketings, decreasing the potential demand for feed grains.

Drug Like Sulfa Cures Tree Canker
By HOWARD BLAKESLEE
Associated Press Science Editor
STAMFORD, Conn — A chemical which is a near relative of the sulfa drugs is being injected into New England trees to stop a fungus disease called bleeding canker.

Where a human being would get a quick shot via a needle, the tree has a small, three-inch-deep hole bored into its wood, and to that is attached a pint bottle via rubber tube. Somewhat slowly the medicine is then absorbed by the tree.
The remedy was developed at the Bartlett Tree Research Laboratories here. It was tried on 322 trees in New England and the middle Atlantic states. The disease usually kills a tree. Growth of trees was faster while under treatment than with the disease and no treatment.
Bleeding canker attacks especially Norway, sycamore, red and silver maples. Beeches, five species of oak and elms, birches and lindens have also been found infected by this disease.

LOVE'S FAIR HORIZON

By ADELE GARRISON

"MERCY on us! What is that?" Mother Graham exclaimed. Then, as I rose abruptly from my chair, she caught at my dress.

"You must not answer that," she said, and something in her voice frightened Faith, for the child wriggled down from her chair, ran to me and clasped my skirt, crying piteously.

"Don't go away, Mimi!" she pleaded—"Please don't go away!"

"I'm only going in the kitchen, Faith, to get some more dinner," I said. "Jim will answer the door when he comes down. Get back in your chair now, and Granzie will see to you."

Significant Look

I flashed my mother-in-law a significant look, and she said, "Come, I'll help you, darling," with a composure which calmed the child and enabled me to go into the kitchen, closing the door after me.

The instant I stepped inside the door, I switched off the kitchen light, then crossed noiselessly to the door, thankful that it was of heavy wood paneling on both sides, with a bullet proof sheet of metal between, and that there was a firmly imbedded night latch and chain on it.

The pounding continued, but ceased suddenly as I pulled back the door the length of the night chain, sheltering myself behind the armored panels the while, and demanded: "Who's there?"

I did not expect an answer from an officer of the law, for I knew that their pounding would not have been as frantic, and that they would have accompanied it with an oral demand to open the door. When Shumway's hoarse voice sounded raucously through the aperture, I was not surprised. I realized that sub-consciously I had been waiting for his threatening appearance again.

But his voice, queerly enough, was not threatening, but appealing.

"Mrs. Graham, is that you?" he croaked.

Purposed Delay

"Yes, who are you?" I answered, purposely delaying him.

"It's me—Shumway," he said, "and you've got to help me both for your sake and mine."

"I told you," I began impatiently, but he interrupted me with what was almost a shriek. "Tain't money I want," he said. "I just want you to hide this wet floor rug. Here!"

I heard the rustle of cloth through the aperture in the door.

"No—" I began, but his frantic voice silenced mine.

"They're after me, I tell you!" he babbled. "Not the coast guard, but worse, and if they ever find out those wet men were in my car, and I didn't report to them, it'll be too bad for me, and for your friends too, for then, money or no money, I'll have to tell what I know, if I'm alive to tell it. Here, grab this thing and pull it through. They're watching my car where I left it down near the corner when I went to get this thing. I saw them before I started back, and I've been walking miles, it seems, since then to get this here. Take it, I tell you, before they trace me here. Hide it or burn it, I don't care; just don't let anybody but you see it. I can make up some story about leaving the car once I get away from here. Have you got it? Pull! I'm going! If you want this baby on your doorstep, I can't help it. But I'm advising you to hide it or burn it, P.D.Q."

Hurries Away

I heard the sound of his footsteps hurrying away. Then, impelled by a sense of urgency which I did not understand—which, indeed, I was almost tempted to call hysteria induced by Shumway's terror—I pulled at the wet rug.

It came easily enough through the door, and, still obeying blind impulse, I closed the night latch, and then dragged the rug into the passageway opening off the kitchen. Leaving it there in a heap on the floor, I hurried back into the kitchen, switched on the light, and gasped with relief as I saw Jim standing by the table.

"I didn't think I had no call to say nuthin,' Mis' Graham," he said apologetically, "until you should light up again. I thought you had enough on your mind. I hope I didn't scare you."

Not Frightened

"Not a bit," I said, "and I have something for you to do right away. Come with me."

I led the way to the passage outside the kitchen, and motioned to the wet car rug on the floor.

"Take it down to the secret chamber as fast as you can," I said. "Tell Major Grantland that Shumway just brought it to the kitchen door and begged me to hide it. Say that Shumway seemed to be terribly frightened, and said that somebody, not the police, were after him, and that if they found out that the two men with wet clothing were in his car, it would be too bad for him and for my friends too. Can you remember this and repeat all of it to Major Grantland, or would you rather I repeated it?"

YOUR HEALTH

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

Smoking Habit

Some time ago in this column I replied to a question from a mother who is worried about her son smoking cigarets. She thinks it is a health hazard and dulls the mind. I replied that so far as I knew smoking is not a health hazard and does not dull the mind. I based this judgment on ordinary experience and observation. We may take professional baseball players as examples of people who are healthy. I do not know how universal the habit of smoking is among them, but all the ones I ever knew smoked some during the season, and it did not seem to interfere with their efficiency. It is my impression that athletic directors generally do not insist on abstinence from tobacco during training as much as they used to. And if health is proved by physical beauty, why, we have the testimony of all the most entrancing women of screen, stage and society proclaiming their devotion to one cigaret or another.

As to intellectual prowess, we must conclude from the most casual perusal of the newsprints that the destinies of the world are in the hands of the smokers. Mr. Roosevelt with his cigaret holder and Mr. Churchill with his cigar are comprehensive enough examples.

However, it appears we may all be wrong. I was not aware of any scientific study of the subject when I wrote as I did, but through the courtesy of Fryus Hopkins, Ph.D., of Claremont College, California, I am in receipt of a study called "The Student Who Smokes," by J. Rosslyn Earp, Director of the Department of Hygiene, Antioch College, Ohio.

Dr. Earp studied winners of athletic events in two intercollegiate track meets and found that of those who took first place in the 100 yard dash, pole vault, high jump, mile run, etc., eight were non-smokers, and four smoked at least to some extent. (The winner of the 100 yard dash was classed as a heavy smoker.) Those winning second place were non-smokers in ten cases, light smokers in one instance, and unrecorded in one instance.

As to scholarship, based on grades in college, there is little to choose between the smokers and non-smokers. One hundred seventy-seven smokers made a mean grade of 3.14 and 176 non-smokers made a mean grade of 3.51. This slight advantage in favor of the non-smokers is almost accounted for by what is known in statistical science as probable error. Forty-two per cent of light smokers and 62 per cent of heavy smokers, and 31 per cent of non-smokers failed to reach the diploma grade (had to improve their standing or leave college).

On inhaling—111 inhalers had a mean grade of 3.04 while 59 non-inhalers had a mean grade of 3.32.

Dr. Earp concludes:

1. A tendency for non-smokers to surpass smokers in athletic achievement is shown, although no clue has been offered for a physiological explanation of the superiority of the non-smokers.

2. An indisputable association between the smoking habit and inferior scholarship exists. Evidence is adduced in favor of the hypothesis that low scholarship is in part at least directly due to the habit of smoking. In particular it is noted that smokers who inhale the smoke have lower scholarship than those who do not.

3. The decision to begin smoking is taken without any appeal to reason in the great majority of cases.

4. That the habits of the father in regard to the use of tobacco exercise a definite influence upon the habits of the son.
